SeMo Mayors talk with governor

Mayors of five Southeast Missouri communities met Wednesday with Gov. Christopher S. Bond and members of his staff at the State Capitol. Discussion concerned local government problems relating to street maintenance, solid waste disposal and manpower needs. Seated, from left, are Mayor T. L. Clark of North Lilbourn, Mayor J. W. Shavers of Homestown, Mayor David R. Humes of Hayti Heights and Gov. Bond. Standing are Mayor Morris Griffin of Penermon and Mayor Willie B. Hamilton of Howardville.

GNP drop worst since depression

WASHINGTON (AP(— A sharp drop in the broadest government measure of the nation's economic health has provided fresh fuel for the debate over how big a tax cut Americans should get.

The report Thursday on the Gross National Product, which measures total output of goods and services, constituted strong evidence that the recession may be the most severe economic dislocation for the United States since the Great Depression.

Administration officials, who support a $16 billion tax cut, say the evidence doesn't yet confirm the recession is that deep.

But the figures underscored the analysis of economist Walter W. Heller, who said even before the new figures came out that this recession is the worst since the depression. Heller, a University of Minnesota professor who has advised Democratic presidents, proposed a tax cut of $20 billion to $25 billion.

In other economic developments Thursday: —President Ford said he will ask Congress for a five-year, nine-month extension of the federal revenue-sharing program.

—Ford Motor Co. announced it is offering buyers of its new small models rebates of up to $500 as a measure to increase sales.

—Chrysler Corp. said it will keep three car assembly plants and a truck facility closed next week, extending layoffs for 13,750 workers.

—Crop production last year sagged 8 per cent from 1973 levels, according to the Agriculture Department. Weather was blamed for the dip.

The Gross National Product, or GNP, figures from the Commerce Department show output slipped at an annual rate of 9.1 per cent over the last three months of 1974 while inflation surged at a 13.7 per cent annual rate.

Output for the year rose by $102 billion to a total of $1,397 billion, but an inflation rate of 10.2 pr cent severely eroded the value of those dollars.

Thus, after adjustment for inflation, 1974 GNP dropped 2.2 per cent.

But those figures did not chart what happened in the economy from the end of 1973 to the end of 1974. On that basis, output dropped 5 per cent.

The GNP drop for this recession is worse than any since the depression, surpassing the previous steepest drop of 3.9 per cent in the 1957-58 recession.

Garrison decision appealed

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. — The Mississippi attorney general's office has officially appealed a Jan. 8 decision by Circuit Court Judge W. W. Brown that quashed the extradition of Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr. of Corinth to the state of Missouri to stand trial for the Sept. 8, 1974, murder of his former wife in Kennett, Mo.

Missouri's request for extradition had been approved by Gov. Bill Waller on Dec. 4.

Judge Brown handed down his decision to overturn the extradition of Dr. Garrison following a three-day habeas corpus hearing granted at the request of the Corinth physician's attorneys to challenge the grounds for the first-degree murder charge in the slaying of Lee Ann Garrison of Kennett.

"The overwhelming weight of evidence was against the state of Missouri," Judge Brown noted in denying a Jan. 15 request to reconsider and grant a new hearing.

The attorney general's office also filed an appeal to the Mississippi Supreme Court in an effort to reverse the judge's decision.

Informed sources say the Supreme Court may not review the transcribed record of the proceedings until mid-summer.

Ark-Mo rate hike approved

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP)—A 23 per cent hike in Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. electric rates was approved by the Missouri Public Service Commission Thursday.

But the increase won't produce the additional $2.6 million in gross annual revenues sought by the company. The new rates are expected to bring in $2.3 million.

The commission Thursday also set these hearing dates for other requested rate increases:

—March 6 for Missouri Utilities Co.'s request for a 20 per cent gas rate hike.

—May 27 for St. Joseph Light and Power Co.'s request for an additional $245,320 in annual gross revenues from gas rates.

—July 14 for United Telephone Co. of Missouri's $3.8 million annual revenue boost request.

Jordanians give Faisal tumultuous welcome

Some 50,000 Jordanians shouting "save Jerusalem" gave Saudi Arabia's King Faisal a tumultuous welcome in Amman today. They slaughtered four camels outside the airport lounge in homage to the monarch, who also holds the title "Protector of Islam's Holy Shrines."

Faisal flew in from Damascus, where he prayed in an ancient mosque with President Hafez Assad. Thousands of Syrians cheered the Saudi monarch as he left the Syrian capital and threw slaughtered sheep in his path as a sign of tribute.

Fasal, wearing a traditional white robe and headdress, embraced Jordan's King Hussein, wearing a field marshal's uniform, as a 21-gun salute boomed a royal welcome at Amman airport.

Arab efforts to secure Israeli withdrawal from the occupied eastern sector of Jerusalem are expected to be the major topic of discussion between Faisal and Hussein during Faisal's three-day visit to Jordan.

The 71-year-old Faisal, ruler of the richest oil state, bankrolls several Arab armies and has vowed he will pray in Jerusalem's Al Aqsa mosque before he dies, but only when an Arab flag flies over the Arab quarter.

The war along the Israeli-Lebanese border subsided into shelling exchanges today and a Beirut newspaper reported that Palestinian guerrillas trained in Syria have moved into the Arkoub region of southern Lebanon to defend their stronghold against Israeli attacks.

For only the second time this week, there was no report of an Israeli raid into southeast Lebanon. Instead, the Israeli command said that Metulla hamlet was shelled for the second night in a row, and Israeli border police patrols came under bazooka and small-arms fire. The command said the fire was returned, and there were no Israeli casualties.

Al Yom, a pro-Palestinian Beirut newspaper, reported that units of the Palestine Liberation Army (PLA) arrived in the Arkoub on Wednesday to bolster the guerrilla defenses.

Guerrilla sources in Beirut reported that Yasir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, visited the area Wednesday, and WAFA, the Palestine news agency, said he canceled a meeting in Damascus with visiting King Faisal of Saudi Arabia to take personal charge of the Arkoub defense.

Al Yom did not say how many PLA troops were sent to southeast Lebanon or what equipment they brought with them.

Guerrilla spokesmen claimed that Israel was massing paratroops, commandos and tanks for an assault to "overrun Kfar Chouba and the southern approaches of Arkoub."

2 men charged with grand theft

BLOOMFIELD — Russell Martin, 36, and Allen Martin, 25, of Dexter have been charged with grand theft and kidnaping in connection with armed robbery and abduction of Fina service station attendant Denzil Morgan and his wife Diann of Dexter early Thursday.

Bond was set at $20,000 each, and the two men are in custody at the Stoddard County jail.

The Martins are to appear for arraignment in Stoddard County Magistrate Court next Thursday.

Morgan, 17, had only been employed at the station west of Dexter on Highway 60 since Sunday.

Morgan's 16-year-old wife was at the station with him when the robbers, armed with a deer rifle, entered the station about 1 a.m.

Morgan was forcced to hand over from $220 to $250 to the men before the robbers forced them into the trunk of Morgan's car, where they left them after driving a short distance from the scene.

The couple were able to free themselves and returned to the station, where police had already been summoned by a customer who found the station empty.

The Martins were picked up a short time later at their rural Dexter home by the highway patrol after Morgan had identified the men.

PSC suspends proposed rates

JEFFERSON CITY — Interim electric rates proposed by Missouri Utilities Company of Cape Girardeau for its southeast division that would increase gross annual revenues by about $1.4 million have been suspended by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The rates were suspended for four months, to June 1, for investigation and hearing. The rates may be suspended for an additional period of six months, if necessary.

The company had asked the commission to permit the 20 per cent increase in rates to go into effect on Feb. 1. Missouri Utilities said if the PSC later found the rates were too high, the company would refund the excess. The utility said it plans to file later an application for a permanent increase in electric rates for the southeast division.

A hearing on the interim rate increase will be held by the commission on March 6. The hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the PSC hearing room on the 10th floor of the Jefferson Building, Jefferson City. A prehearing conference will be held in the same location at 10 a.m., March 5.

Those who qualify as intervenors and wish to participate in the proceeding must file a written application with the commission by Feb. 19.

Persons who wish to testify in the case but do not want to intervene should contact Leland B. Curtis, commission counsel, or William M. Barvick, public counsel of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing.

The address and telephone number of the commission counsel are P.O. Box 360, Jefferson Building, Jefferson City 65101 (314) 751-2412, and of the public counsel, P.O. Box 386, 911A Leslie Blvd., Jefferson City 65101 (314) 751-4857.

Missouri Utilities is to file its prepared testimony and exhibits with the commission by Feb. 4. Intervenors and the PSC staff are to submit their evidence at the hearing on March 6.

The counties where electric service is provided in the southeast division are Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott and Stoddard.

P'ville youth shoots himself at gravesite

PORTAGEVILLE — An 18-year-old, rural Portageville boy, Kenny Johnson, who shot himself Thursday about 1:30 p.m. while at his father's gravesite in the Portageville Cemetery, is reported today in satisfactory condition at Methodist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Johnson, who was alone in the cemetery that is in the northern edge of Pemiscot County, shot himself in the lower right abdomen with a sawed-off .22 caliber rifle, according to a county sheriff's deputy.

The deputy said the youth was apparently depressed and had told officers "I just felt like shooting myself".

Johnson received emergency treatment at Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti and was then transferred to Memphis.

Kennett murder case to be tried May 9

BLOOMFIELD — Robert Oakley of Kennett will stand trial in Stoddard County Circuit Court on May 9 on a first-degree murder charge stemming from the fatal shooting of David Chandler at a trailer court just outside the Kennett city limits last year.

The murder case, moved from Dunklin County on a change of venue request by the defense, was one of four cases set for May 9 trials Wednesday in Stoddard County Circuit Court by Judge Flake McHaney. Dunklin County Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker represented the state at Wednesday's proceedings involving the Oakley case.

Coordinator explains steps to establish ambulance district

BENTON — Diana Pronk, emergency medical services coordinator with Comprehensive Health planning council in Malden, met with the Scott County Court Thursday and provided background information concerning the formation of ambulance districts.

She told the court that the first step in forming such a district is to file a petition with the county clerk containing signatures of 10 per cent of the voters casting ballots in the last gubernatorial election.

The county clerk then presents the petitions requesting the formation of an ambulance district to the County Court, which schedules a public hearing within 30 to 40 days. If the petition complies with the law, the court will then call an election. Approval of a simple majority of voters is all that is required to form an ambulance district.

Mrs. Pronk told the court that after the district is approved by the voters, the county court should divide the district into six election districts for the purpose of electing directors.

Voters in each of the six districts elect a director, and these six persons form the board of directors for the ambulance district. They serve without pay.

Powers of the ambulance district include levying a property tax of up to 15 cents per $100 valuation to finance the ambulance service operation.

Mrs. Gerald Schlitt of the Caney Creek area northof Oran attended Thursday's session to complain that a Missouri Pacific Railroad crossing tore a muffler off her car. She had attended a previous court session in 1974 and was told the court would look into the matter.

The court agreed that even though the railroad crossing may not be in very good shape, it is not the county's responsibility.

Associate Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn explained to Mrs. Schlitt that the county has jurisdiction only up to the railroad's right of way, but that the railroad property itself -- where the damage is said to have occurred -- is out of county jurisdiction.

Presiding Judge Louie Hirschowitz said her only apparent recourse now is to sue the railroad.

"We can't pay for something that isn't our responsibility," Hirschowitz said, "we can't take the taxpayers money and spend it unlawfully, and pay a debt we don't owe."

Hirschowitz said he talked with the railroad officials, however, and that steps have been taken to improve the crossing. Mrs. Schlitt agreed that the crossing was now in better shape than it was when her car was damaged.

The County Court continued to work on the county budget during Thursday's session, but a finalized budget is not expected until the end of the month.

Hirschowitz said that the money situation is so tight that the county this year will give no money to the four special road districts in the county, as they have done in previous years.

The judges agreed that this and other possible actions may not make them very popular, but, Hirschowitz said, "we're not going to borrow money."

The judges worked on the budget in a session that lasted most of the day.

Garrison decision appealed

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. — The Mississippi attorney general's office has officially appealed a Jan. 8 decision by Circuit Court Judge W. W. Brown that quashed the extradition of Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr. of Corinth to the state of Missouri to stand trial for the Sept. 8, 1974, murder of his former wife in Kennett, Mo.

Missouri's request for extradition had been approved by Gov. Bill Waller on Dec. 4.

Judge Brown handed down his decision to overturn the extradition of Dr. Garrison following a three-day habeas corpus hearing granted at the request of the Corinth physician's attorneys to challenge the grounds for the first-degree murder charge in the slaying of Lee Ann Garrison of Kennett.

"The overwhelming weight of evidence was against the state of Missouri," Judge Brown noted in denying a Jan. 15 request to reconsider and grant a new hearing.

The attorney general's office also filed an appeal to the Mississippi Supreme Court in an effort to reverse the judge's decision.

Informed sources say the Supreme Court may not review the transcribed record of the proceedings until mid-summer.

Ark-Mo rate hike approved

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP)—A 23 per cent hike in Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. electric rates was approved by the Missouri Public Service Commission Thursday.

But the increase won't produce the additional $2.6 million in gross annual revenues sought by the company. The new rates are expected to bring in $2.3 million.

The commission Thursday also set these hearing dates for other requested rate increases:

—March 6 for Missouri Utilities Co.'s request for a 20 per cent gas rate hike.

—May 27 for St. Joseph Light and Power Co.'s request for an additional $245,320 in annual gross revenues from gas rates.

—July 14 for United Telephone Co. of Missouri's $3.8 million annual revenue boost request.

PSC suspends proposed rates

JEFFERSON CITY — Interim electric rates proposed by Missouri Utilities Company of Cape Girardeau for its southeast division that would increase gross annual revenues by about $1.4 million have been suspended by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The rates were suspended for four months, to June 1, for investigation and hearing. The rates may be suspended for an additional period of six months, if necessary.

The company had asked the commission to permit the 20 per cent increase in rates to go into effect on Feb. 1. Missouri Utilities said if the PSC later found the rates were too high, the company would refund the excess. The utility said it plans to file later an application for a permanent increase in electric rates for the southeast division.

A hearing on the interim rate increase will be held by the commission on March 6. The hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the PSC hearing room on the 10th floor of the Jefferson Building, Jefferson City. A prehearing conference will be held in the same location at 10 a.m., March 5.

Those who qualify as intervenors and wish to participate in the proceeding must file a written application with the commission by Feb. 19.

Persons who wish to testify in the case but do not want to intervene should contact Leland B. Curtis, commission counsel, or William M. Barvick, public counsel of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing.

The address and telephone number of the commission counsel are P.O. Box 360, Jefferson Building, Jefferson City 65101 (314) 751-2412, and of the public counsel, P.O. Box 386, 911A Leslie Blvd., Jefferson City 65101 (314) 751-4857.

Missouri Utilities is to file its prepared testimony and exhibits with the commission by Feb. 4. Intervenors and the PSC staff are to submit their evidence at the hearing on March 6.

The counties where electric service is provided in the southeast division are Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott and Stoddard.

THIS IS NO TIME TO BE RIGHT

Charles Wilson, secretary of defense back in the Eisenhower era, did it when he suggested that what was good for General Motors was good for the country.

Would-be presidential candidate George Romney did it in 1968 when he charged that he had been "brainwashed" about Vietnam.

Another hopeful, Edmund Muskie, blew whatever chances he had in 1972 when he got emotional over some harsh untruths a newspaper had printed about his wife.

Now Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, has given a lesson in how to lose friends and influence people — the wrong way.

"If you want to examine who is hurting the most in terms of percentage of lost income," he said at one of the recent minisummit conferences on the economy, "It's the Wall Street brokers who are hurt the most."

Now, what each of these gentlemen expressed was, in the context in which they expressed it, not without merit. At least, a good defense could be made for each of them.

Nevertheless, there are certain things a public figure just does not say in public. Back in 1968, who hadn't been misled about Vietnam? Yet no one wanted to hear a potential president admit that he had been.

In Greenspan's case, his contention about percentages of lost income may be quite valid. But people aren't worried about the $50,000-a-year broker who is now struggling along on $20,000. They are not impressed that the market slump may have dealt the Rockefellers a paper loss of umpteen millions.

Unfortunately, the truths men speak — or try to speak — oft lie interred with their careers. Their faux pas live after them.

LONG FRINGE

The term "fringe benefits" is becoming more and more of a misnomer.

The average amount of employer- paid benefits received by employes in 1973 was $3,230, reports the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

In 1953, when the first data was collected, the average was only $842.

This $3,230 was, of course, money earned by American workers in 1973 that was paid to them in services or benefits — health and life insurance, etc. — rather than in (taxable) wages or salaries.

But how many workers ever bother to consider the so-called "fringe benefits" when they figure out their incomes?

GOVERNMENT'S GROWING COST

Americans paid an average of $55 a person more in taxes to state and local governments in 1973 than they did in 1972. The total average came to $577, reports Commerce Clearing House.

The per capita share of state and local taxes went up in every state, ranging from a low of $342 in Arkansas to a high of $894 in New York (the first time the $800 level has been passed.)

Only Arkansas was below the $350 level, whereas in the previous fiscal period four states were.

Interestingly enough, the total state tax take (not local) decreased by $500 million last year. It was the first decrease in recent history, says the Tax Foundation. And the net result of tax legislation in 27 states this year is another over-all reduction.

Specifically, taxpayers in 14 states will benefit from tax cuts amounting to $685 million on an annual basis. Nine other states have increased taxes by $335 million, making for a net state tax reduction — so far — of $350 million.

The commission, however, has had to lower it s estimates for 1975, 1980, and 1985 because of 'slippages in plant construction schedules and a slight reduction in the rate of growth and energy consumption."

THE PLASTIC SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME

Ours is often called a plastic society, and no compliment is meant by the term. We may have to become even more "plasticized," however, if the world is going to be able to feed itself in the years ahead.

At least one scientist thinks so. According to Dr. James E. Guillet, professor of chemistry at the University of Tornoto. an increased use of plastics will help meet the food problem by leaving more land available to produce foodstuffs.

He points out that current world production of synthetic fibers is about 20 billion pounds a year. If these fibers were to be replaced by cotton, it would require 40 million acres of agricultural land. If they were replaced by wool, it would take over a billion acres-or the equivalent of all the agricultural land in the United States.

To remove this much land from food production to grow cotton or pasture sheep would be unacceptable in the light of the world food shortage, even if it were practical.

A single synthetic fiber plant the size of a football field, says Guillet, can produce 200 million pounds of plastic fiber. This is equivalent to 10 million acres of land devoted to the raising of wool and just about matches all the farmland in a state like Louisiana or Michigan.

It takes energy, of course, to make plastics, as well as petrochemicals, derived from oil. But it requires far less energy and raw materials to manufacture plastics for our daily needs, says Guillet, than goods made of minerals or timber or agricultural products.

MANDATORY UNIONISM

In declining to hear appeals from lower court rulings in- William F. Buckley, Jr., Stanton Evans, and Fulton Lewis III the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the principle of compulsory union membership as a condition of free speech is involved. All three were seeking relief from union contract rules requiring them to be members of AFTRA as a condition to their employment by radio or television without which they cannot speak on the air.

One wonders what the Supreme Court would have ruled had the case involved reporters or editorial writers and a newspaper union requirement that they first be members of the union in order to practice their right to a free press.

The British press is now involved in a drive by the National Union of Journalists for the closed shop on all newspapers and a temporary boycott of all news articles written or edited by non-members. The U. S. press will be spared this, we hope, because of the size of the newspaper business and the small percentage of news and editorial employes represented by a union. But U.S. radio and televisoion, which many consider a part of the "press," already face these restrictive conditions.

Justice William O. Douglas and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger commented in their dissent on the Buckley- Evans- Lewis cases: "In some respects, the requirement to pay dues under compulsion can be viewed as the functional equivalent of a license to speak. " On newspapers it would be a "license to write."

The lower courts said relief can be obtained through the National Labor Relations Board. Since the National Labour Relations act was the creature of Congress, relief can be sought there also.

Putting aside all the compolicated legaltities, it seems only plain common sense that any requirement to pay a fee, or dues, or tribute, to anyone or any organization for the right to speak on the air or to express oneself in print should not be permitted in this country - Editor & Publisher.

BODY LANGUAGE: LISTEN AND LIVE

Children are put through endless fire drills at school so they will instinctively know what to do in case of fire.

In life, we are conditioned to respond to certain sights and sounds - a red flashing light, the traffic signals and sounds, the wail of a siren, the clang of a fire bell.

Our bodies, too, give off warnings. When we have a headache, we reach, almost without thinking, for the aspirin bottle. A toothacheconjures up thoughts of the dentist. Pain and discomfort send messages and trigger responses. Without this signal that something is going wrong, our lives would often be in danger.

The American Heart Association and local Heart Associations, now conducting their annual Heart Fund drive, have great respect for this "body language," particularly in relation to the nation's major killers - heart attack and stroke.

The body often gives off what are aptly called "early warning signs." These sysptoms usually precede a heart attackor stroke, sometimes by weeks or months, often by mere minutes. Knowing the warning signs, and acting quickly when they occur, can mean the difference between life and death.

We read the statistics - more than 28 million Americans suffer some form of heart sidisease. Some 680,000 will die from heart attack alone this year. Another 200,000 will die from stroke. And we wonder, how many would be healthy and live today if they had taken the trouble to know and act on the early warning signs?

These are the warning signs of heart attack: prolonged, oppressive pain or unusual discomfort in the center of the chest; pain may radiate to shoulder, arm neck or jaw; sweating may accompany pain or discomfort; nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath may also occur.

These are the warning signs of stroke: sudden, temporary weakness ornumbness of face, arm or leg; temporary loss of speech, or trouble in speaking or understanding speech; temporary dimness or loss of vision, particularly in one eye; an episode of double vision; unexplained dizziness or unsteadiness; change in personality, mental ability or the pattern of headaches may also occur.

The Heart Association cautions, however, that these are only what the name implies - warning signs. They are not always true signals of heart attack and stroke. But acting on them - calling your doctor or getting to a hospital emergency room - is important. As the cliche goes, it's better tobe safe than sorry.

The Heart ssociation has more information about the warning signs, and other things you can do to safeguard your heart-health: So ask your Heart Association - and give generously when your Heart Fund volunteer calls.

CONVERTING CAR EXHAUST

Cars with catalytic converters are centerstage this year, along with unleaded agasoline.

The 1975 cars with converters not only spew out fewer pollutants, they also run better than last year's models, start quicker, and even get better gas mileage. Fuel savings in 1975 models with converters, for example, are 13 per cent above that for last year's cars.

Part of the reason for this good news is that car manufacturers have had to redesign carburetors and ignition systems in order to get the catalysts to work properly. So there are happy side-effects along with less pollution.

The converters themselves, attached to exhaust pipes, chemically change polluting hyddrocarbons and carbon monixide to harmless carbon dioxide and water. The converters are designed to reduce hydrocarbons by 83 per cent and carbon monoxide by 90 per cent.

Cars with converters must use completely lead-free gas. It's against federal law for a gas station to pump leaded gas into a catalyst- equipped car. In addition to ruining the catalyst, violating the law calls for a $10,000 fine. But besides being destructive and illegal, it's almost impossible to pump the wrong kind of gas into the new cars. The flifiller pipe is no narrow that the standard gas nozzle won't fit inside.

Reducing the pollutants in car exhaust is one major way to fight air pollution. Car exhaust is the chief cause of air pollution. But there are other important ways, such as supporting public transportation. To join the fight, contact your America n Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, the Christmas Seal people. HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE: NOTHING TO FEAR

There is much about high blood pressure to fear. For thisdesease, which doctors usually call hypertension, has no unusual symptoms. And in 90 per cent of the cases, doctors can't determine the cause. It is a jmajor contributor in the development of heart attack and stroke, heart and kidney failure - diseases which together kill more than 900,000 Americans each year.

But this silent killer which can strike without warning - this mysterious killer for which science still seeks a cause - is easily detected and can usually be controlled.

If you are a black American, there is additional reason to be concerned. You are twice as likely to have high blood pressure as a white American. It will strike at an earlier age and will probably be more severe. Science doesn't yet know why black Americans or anybody else has high blood pressure. And they don't know why it is more prevalent among blacks. But research is seeking causes and, hopefully, cures.

Meanwhile, take hope,. High blood pressure can easily be detected by a painless, inexpensive medical examination. And it can be controlled.

But what is frightening about high blood pressure is the apathy of people who can't take seriously a disease which does not make them feel bad. Then there are those who foolishly assume that because an examination five or more years ago found their pressure normal, there's no need to have it checked again. These people are asking for trouble . . . heart trouble.

Heart disease isn't something that just happens to the "aged." It can strike people of any age, any race, any sex. And this is why all Americans should be interested in learning how to reduce their risk of these two killers - heart attack and stroke.

The American Heart Association is now conducting its annual Heart Fund drive to raise the dollars necessary to support its many programs in heart research, education and community service. To do its job effectivley, the Heart Association needs your help.

So take care of your heart. Get a blood pressure test and follow your doctor's advice to control it. And give generously when your Heart volunteer calls.

Behind the Script: Some Labor Chiefs See Ford's Talk As Move Toward Wage Controls

WASHINGTON--Jerry Ford played the political Super Bowl for the first time with his speech Monday night--and got his thumps from the veterans. Labor leader George Meany charged the President with giving "peanuts to leaders growled that the gasoline tax was a heavy "wage cut." I spoke to a score of others who lead union legions--but they decided not to go public until after a two-shift White House briefing at the end of the week on what it all meant.

These are the men who had White House telegrams on their desks, hours before the presidential speech, inviting them to come in and talk with the innermost economic brain trust.

But virtually all of them were startled by what came out of left field--the President's first cautious move towards what they said would be eventual wage controls.

This was the reference to a 5 per cent ceiling on 1975 federal employe wage increases

This surprised and startled all but a tight circle of insiders, the few men who were the last to see the speech before the President penciled in a few sparse changes--Treasury Secretary Simon, Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns, economic council chairman Alan Greenspan, the President's personal economic brain truster and major--domo Don Rumsfeld.

They are mostly hard-liners. They kept their secret well. So well, in fact, that the wage-raise ceiling has gone by the public virtually unnoticed--but not by the ladies' Garment Workers Union leader Louis Stulberg said immediately afterwards, "this is a sign to all of industry that 5 per cent should be the guidelines of the nation."

One of the few close to Meany told me blunty, "We aren't taking any wage controls, guidelines or anything like it, whether it's blunt or insinuated."

Also practically unnoticed was the president's demand that the federal cost-of-living clauses be limited to 5 per cent hikes, in 1975.

That's like driving a herd of swine down a Jerusalem or Cairo street. Only union leaders in a bankrupt industry dare return to their members without an uncapped cost-of-living allowance (COLA).

Thus though Ford's few words about labor and industry restraint were drowned in the flood of discussion of petroleum taxes, President Ford and his inner circle actually did confront labor's most powerful leaders.

There are three significant issues here: the President actually unilaterally put a top on any wage increases which will be sought in 1975 by the hundreds of thousands of postal workers and other government employes in many of the 40 national unions which the federal departments and bureaus deal. In all there are about a million unionized federal workers who speak for many more in their contracts. These include such powerful organizations as the 757,000 - member International Assn. of Machinists as well as the American Postal Workers Union and the American Federation of Government Employees.

Included are such strategically placed unions as the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization who once proved they can cripple commercial aviation with even a go slow, work to the rules job action.

In effect, the President also challenged the almost brand-new Public Employees Dept. (AFL-CIO) which is led by the Fire Fighters leader Howie McClennan.

Secondly, the President said during his first press conference there would be no wage-price controls of any sort. "Period."

Now he did put a control on wages of over three million employes, federal retirees through curbing of cost-of-living increases, and on Social Security recipients.

Thirdly, Jerry Ford did this without consulting America's most influential labor chiefs--the members of his special labor-management advisory committee, coordinated by Harvard's John Dunlop whom Mr. Ford would dearly like to appoint Secretary of Labor.

The lid on federal employes' pay raises was not mentioned during the secret Ford-Labor-Management Committee final discussions on economic policy, I'm told. Some of the labor leaders will take this as a personal insult.

They say that they could not tolerate a 5 per cent limit on federal wage increases and a cap on COLA for their members in the federal employ while they go out and fight for 10 and 15 per cent increases and an uncapped COLA for fellow members in the very same union.

Thus, while there will be considerable agitation over what appears to be a coming 10 cent to 15 cent tax per gallon of gas, there is fermentation of a national labor confrontation if the Predident doesn't back down. And certainly if industrialists in profitable private industries follow the President's lead on the wage front.

So it will get noisy. The President may well back down. Or there may be a move for full controls-- wages, prices, dividends, rents, the full things. This battle is just beginning. The President kicked it off.

KGB UP TO ITS OLD TRICKS
By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--While the spotlight is on the CIA, its Soviet counterpart, the KGB, has been making quiet gains in this country. The detente has brought some 400 Soviet students and professors, for example, to American campuses.

Unimpeachable sources, who have kept up with Soviet spy operations, have described to us how the Russian academics are lined up as part-time informants before they ever come to this country. The unspoken penalty for refusing to cooperate, our sources say, would be retaliation against their families at home.

Scholar-spies are required to report their observations to their Soviet "controls," who usually are located in Moscow and debrief the returning scholars.

But some dedicated academic agents report regularly to "controls" in the United States. These are located in Soviet diplomatic and other offices in this country are called "Residentura," a KGB term roughly equivalent to "Resident Big Shot."

Although no one in the U.S. government would talk with us on the record about the scholar-spies, most of them in scientific studies, their connection with the KGB is well known to American officials. It is only their campus classmates and colleagues who are kept in the dark.

One reason for the official silence: Whether the scholars remain in academia or slip over into full-time intelligence work, the U.S. government feels their understanding of America's free way of life will do more overall good than harm.

Another reason is that American intelligence agencies also attempt to debrief U.S. students and teachers returning from Communist lands. In fact, say our sources, the CIA has tens of thousands, perhaps as many as 100,000 such reports on file. The difference is that American scholars can refuse to cooperate with our intelligence interrogators.

NEWSLETTER RACKET: By our calculations, more than 148.5 million newsletters are mailed out from Capitol Hill each year. Most of them are spiced with political propaganda, which is intended to impress the voters how noble their respective congressmen are.

This dubious political instruction costs the taxpayers millions of dollars, an expenditure that amounts to a special subsidy to help keep the incumbents in office. For few prospective challengers can afford regular mailings to keep their names before the voters between campaigns.

Two of our reporters, Sarah Larson and Tom Martin, surveyed over two-thirds of the members of the House to find out how the newsletter racket operates. Here are the results:

--Most congressional newsletters are written by staff members, where salaries are paid by the taxpayers. By disguising the political content a little, congressmen are also able to mail their newsletters under the franking privilege, which permits them merely to sign their first-class mail. This free postage for newsletters costs the taxpayers an estimated $15 million every year.

--The taxpayers, however, don't pay the paper and printing costs, which run around $1.5 million a year. Most congressmen find someone else to stick for these bills.

--We found 31 Democrats and 15 Republicans who dip into their government stationery allowance to pay for their newsletters. The $6,500 stationery account is supposed to be used for office supplies. But this is an allowance so curiously unrestricted that a congressman may pocket the entire amount if he wishes.

--Another 34 Republicans and 27 Democrats have raised special funds to pay their newsletter production costs. In the post-Watergate spirit, most were willing to disclose the list of contributors. But 10 congressmen publish newsletters with secret funds.

The 10 are Tom Befill, D.-Ala., Dominick Daniels, D.-N.J., William Dickinson, R-Ala., William Hudnut III, R.-Ind., Dale Milford, D.-Tex., G.V. Montgomery, D.-Miss., Carlos Moorhead, R.-Calif., Daniel Rostenkowski, D.-Ill., John Rousselot, R.-Calif., and Joe Skubitz, R.-Kan.

Milford claimed he was forbidden by Texas law from revealing his contributors. Butanother Texas congressman, J.J. Pickle, D.-Tex., saw no legal obstacle to listing his contributors.

--Another 19 Republicans and 18 Democrats finance their newsletters out of left-over campaign funds. Twelve Democrats and seven Republicans use general office funds. Republicans also have a special public relations fund, which is used by 55 Republicans to pay for their newsletters.

Footnote: The four most secretive congressmen, who refused to give out any information at all about their newsletters, were Charles Chamberlain, R.-Mich., Norman Lent, R.-N.Y., Wright Patman, D.-Tex., and Sam Steiger, R.-Ariz.

THE PLASTIC SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME

Ours is often called a plastic society, and no compliment is meant by the term. We may have to become even more "plasticized," however, if the world is going to be able to feed itself in the years ahead.

At least one scientist thinks so. According to Dr. James E. Guillet, professor of chemistry at the University of Tornoto. an increased use of plastics will help meet the food problem by leaving more land available to produce foodstuffs.

He points out that current world production of synthetic fibers is about 20 billion pounds a year. If these fibers were to be replaced by cotton, it would require 40 million acres of agricultural land. If they were replaced by wool, it would take over a billion acres-or the equivalent of all the agricultural land in the United States.

To remove this much land from food production to grow cotton or pasture sheep would be unacceptable in the light of the world food shortage, even if it were practical.

A single synthetic fiber plant the size of a football field, says Guillet, can produce 200 million pounds of plastic fiber. This is equivalent to 10 million acres of land devoted to the raising of wool and just about matches all the farmland in a state like Louisiana or Michigan.

It takes energy, of course, to make plastics, as well as petrochemicals, derived from oil. But it requires far less energy and raw materials to manufacture plastics for our daily needs, says Guillet, than goods made of minerals or timber or agricultural products.

GOLD FEVER

Gold is the big story today. All that we have is our wedding ring and it was the one used by our father to marry our mother in 1892. But if we had some gold, what would we do with it? Of course we would lockit up in our bank box, and rearely ever see it. We would never know what it was worth for it varies in value from day to day. Still, we wish we had a big truck load of gold and the worry of where to hide it. -- Shelbina Democrat.

MANDATORY UNIONISM

In declining to hear appeals from lower court rulings in- William F. Buckley, Jr., Stanton Evans, and Fulton Lewis III the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the principle of compulsory union membership as a condition of free speech is involved. All three were seeking relief from union contract rules requiring them to be members of AFTRA as a condition to their employment by radio or television without which they cannot speak on the air.

One wonders what the Supreme Court would have ruled had the case involved reporters or editorial writers and a newspaper union requirement that they first be members of the union in order to practice their right to a free press.

The British press is now involved in a drive by the National Union of Journalists for the closed shop on all newspapers and a temporary boycott of all news articles written or edited by non-members. The U. S. press will be spared this, we hope, because of the size of the newspaper business and the small percentage of news and editorial employes represented by a union. But U.S. radio and televisoion, which many consider a part of the "press," already face these restrictive conditions.

Justice William O. Douglas and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger commented in their dissent on the Buckley- Evans- Lewis cases:

"In some respects, the requirement to pay dues under compulsion can be viewed as the functional equivalent of a license to speak. " On newspapers it would be a "license to write."

The lower courts said relief can be obtained through the National Labor Relations Board. Since the National Labour Relations act was the creature of Congress, relief can be sought there also.

Putting aside all the compolicated legaltities, it seems only plain common sense that any requirement to pay a fee, or dues, or tribute, to anyone or any organization for the right to speak on the air or to express oneself in print should not be permitted in this country - Editor & Publisher.

BODY LANGUAGE: LISTEN AND LIVE

Children are put through endless fire drills at school so they will instinctively know what to do in case of fire.

In life, we are conditioned to respond to certain sights and sounds - a red flashing light, the traffic signals and sounds, the wail of a siren, the clang of a fire bell.

Our bodies, too, give off warnings. When we have a headache, we reach, almost without thinking, for the aspirin bottle. A toothacheconjures up thoughts of the dentist. Pain and discomfort send messages and trigger responses. Without this signal that something is going wrong, our lives would often be in danger.

The American Heart Association and local Heart Associations, now conducting their annual Heart Fund drive, have great respect for this "body language," particularly in relation to the nation's major killers - heart attack and stroke.

The body often gives off what are aptly called "early warning signs." These sysptoms usually precede a heart attackor stroke, sometimes by weeks or months, often by mere minutes. Knowing the warning signs, and acting quickly when they occur, can mean the difference between life and death.

We read the statistics - more than 28 million Americans suffer some form of heart sidisease. Some 680,000 will die from heart attack alone this year. Another 200,000 will die from stroke. And we wonder, how many would be healthy and live today if they had taken the trouble to know and act on the early warning signs?

These are the warning signs of heart attack: prolonged, oppressive pain or unusual discomfort in the center of the chest; pain may radiate to shoulder, arm neck or jaw; sweating may accompany pain or discomfort; nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath may also occur.

These are the warning signs of stroke: sudden, temporary weakness ornumbness of face, arm or leg; temporary loss of speech, or trouble in speaking or understanding speech; temporary dimness or loss of vision, particularly in one eye; an episode of double vision; unexplained dizziness or unsteadiness; change in personality, mental ability or the pattern of headaches may also occur.

The Heart Association cautions, however, that these are only what the name implies - warning signs. They are not always true signals of heart attack and stroke. But acting on them - calling your doctor or getting to a hospital emergency room - is important. As the cliche goes, it's better tobe safe than sorry.

The Heart ssociation has more information about the warning signs, and other things you can do to safeguard your heart-health: So ask your Heart Association - and give generously when your Heart Fund volunteer calls.

CONVERTING CAR EXHAUST

Cars with catalytic converters are centerstage this year, along with unleaded agasoline.

The 1975 cars with converters not only spew out fewer pollutants, they also run better than last year's models, start quicker, and even get better gas mileage. Fuel savings in 1975 models with converters, for example, are 13 per cent above that for last year's cars.

Part of the reason for this good news is that car manufacturers have had to redesign carburetors and ignition systems in order to get the catalysts to work properly. So there are happy side-effects along with less pollution.

The converters themselves, attached to exhaust pipes, chemically change polluting hyddrocarbons and carbon monixide to harmless carbon dioxide and water. The converters are designed to reduce hydrocarbons by 83 per cent and carbon monoxide by 90 per cent.

Cars with converters must use completely lead-free gas. It's against federal law for a gas station to pump leaded gas into a catalyst- equipped car. In addition to ruining the catalyst, violating the law calls for a $10,000 fine. But besides being destructive and illegal, it's almost impossible to pump the wrong kind of gas into the new cars. The flifiller pipe is no narrow that the standard gas nozzle won't fit inside.

Reducing the pollutants in car exhaust is one major way to fight air pollution. Car exhaust is the chief cause of air pollution. But there are other important ways, such as supporting public transportation. To join the fight, contact your America n Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, the Christmas Seal people. It's a mattaer of life and breath.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE: NOTHING TO FEAR

There is much about high blood pressure to fear. For thisdesease, which doctors usually call hypertension, has no unusual symptoms. And in 90 per cent of the cases, doctors can't determine the cause. It is a jmajor contributor in the development of heart attack and stroke, heart and kidney failure - diseases which together kill more than 900,000 Americans each year.

But this silent killer which can strike without warning - this mysterious killer for which science still seeks a cause - is easily detected and can usually be controlled.

If you are a black American, there is additional reason to be concerned. You are twice as likely to have high blood pressure as a white American. It will strike at an earlier age and will probably be more severe. Science doesn't yet know why black Americans or anybody else has high blood pressure. And they don't know why it is more prevalent among blacks. But research is seeking causes and, hopefully, cures.

Meanwhile, take hope,. High blood pressure can easily be detected by a painless, inexpensive medical examination. And it can be controlled.

But what is frightening about high blood pressure is the apathy of people who can't take seriously a disease which does not make them feel bad. Then there are those who foolishly assume that because an examination five or more years ago found their pressure normal, there's no need to have it checked again. These people are asking for trouble . . . heart trouble.

Heart disease isn't something that just happens to the "aged." It can strike people of any age, any race, any sex. And this is why all Americans should be interested in learning how to reduce their risk of these two killers - heart attack and stroke.

The American Heart Association is now conducting its annual Heart Fund drive to raise the dollars necessary to support its many programs in heart research, education and community service. To do its job effectivley, the Heart Association needs your help.

So take care of your heart. Get a blood pressure test and follow your doctor's advice to control it. And give generously when your Heart volunteer calls.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

The following statement was part of an Address entitled, "Don't Blame Caesar," by Ed W. Hiles. It was reprinted in "The Freeman" and carries a message that all of us should take to heart for the good of our character, not to mention the health of the nation. He said: "Whenever one man gets something without earning it, some other man has to earn something without getting it. That is morally wrong and any nation built on that kind of philsophy is headed for trouble because the real irony of this is that the man who pays nothing actually pays the highest price of all through the destruction of his character and self-respect."

Inside Labor

Victor Riesel

Behind the Script: Some Labor Chiefs See Ford's Talk As Move Toward Wage Controls

WASHINGTON--Jerry Ford played the political Super Bowl for the first time with his speech Monday night--and got his thumps from the veterans. Labor leader George Meany charged the President with giving "peanuts to leaders growled that the gasoline tax was a heavy "wage cut." I spoke to a score of others who lead union legions--but they decided not to go public until after a two-shift White House briefing at the end of the week on what it all meant.

These are the men who had White House telegrams on their desks, hours before the presidential speech, inviting them to come in and talk with the innermost economic brain trust.

But virtually all of them were startled by what came out of left field--the President's first cautious move towards what they said would be eventual wage controls.

This was the reference to a 5 per cent ceiling on 1975 federal employe wage increases

This surprised and startled all but a tight circle of insiders, the few men who were the last to see the speech before the President penciled in a few sparse changes--Treasury Secretary Simon, Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns, economic council chairman Alan Greenspan, the President's personal economic brain truster and major--domo Don Rumsfeld.

They are mostly hard-liners. They kept their secret well. So well, in fact, that the wage-raise ceiling has gone by the public virtually unnoticed--but not by the ladies' Garment Workers Union leader Louis Stulberg said immediately afterwards, "this is a sign to all of industry that 5 per cent should be the guidelines of the nation."

One of the few close to Meany told me blunty, "We aren't taking any wage controls, guidelines or anything like it, whether it's blunt or insinuated."

Also practically unnoticed was the president's demand that the federal cost-of-living clauses be limited to 5 per cent hikes, in 1975.

That's like driving a herd of swine down a Jerusalem or Cairo street. Only union leaders in a bankrupt industry dare return to their members without an uncapped cost-of-living allowance (COLA).

Thus though Ford's few words about labor and industry restraint were drowned in the flood of discussion of petroleum taxes, President Ford and his inner circle actually did confront labor's most powerful leaders.

There are three significant issues here: the President actually unilaterally put a top on any wage increases which will be sought in 1975 by the hundreds of thousands of postal workers and other government employes in many of the 40 national unions which the federal departments and bureaus deal. In all there are about a million unionized federal workers who speak for many more in their contracts. These include such powerful organizations as the 757,000 - member International Assn. of Machinists as well as the American Postal Workers Union and the American Federation of Government Employees.

Included are such strategically placed unions as the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization who once proved they can cripple commercial aviation with even a go slow, work to the rules job action.

In effect, the President also challenged the almost brand-new Public Employees Dept. (AFL-CIO) which is led by the Fire Fighters leader Howie McClennan.

Secondly, the President said during his first press conference there would be no wage-price controls of any sort. "Period."

Now he did put a control on wages of over three million employes, federal retirees through curbing of cost-of-living increases, and on Social Security recipients.

Thirdly, Jerry Ford did this without consulting America's most influential labor chiefs--the members of his special labor-management advisory committee, coordinated by Harvard's John Dunlop whom Mr. Ford would dearly like to appoint Secretary of Labor.

The lid on federal employes' pay raises was not mentioned during the secret Ford-Labor-Management Committee final discussions on economic policy, I'm told. Some of the labor leaders will take this as a personal insult.

They say that they could not tolerate a 5 per cent limit on federal wage increases and a cap on COLA for their members in the federal employ while they go out and fight for 10 and 15 per cent increases and an uncapped COLA for fellow members in the very same union.

Thus, while there will be considerable agitation over what appears to be a coming 10 cent to 15 cent tax per gallon of gas, there is fermentation of a national labor confrontation if the Predident doesn't back down. And certainly if industrialists in profitable private industries follow the President's lead on the wage front.

So it will get noisy. The President may well back down. Or there may be a move for full controls-- wages, prices, dividends, rents, the full things. This battle is just beginning. The President kicked it off.

KGB UP TO ITS OLD TRICKS
By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--While the spotlight is on the CIA, its Soviet counterpart, the KGB, has been making quiet gains in this country. The detente has brought some 400 Soviet students and professors, for example, to American campuses.

Unimpeachable sources, who have kept up with Soviet spy operations, have described to us how the Russian academics are lined up as part-time informants before they ever come to this country. The unspoken penalty for refusing to cooperate, our sources say, would be retaliation against their families at home.

Scholar-spies are required to report their observations to their Soviet "controls," who usually are located in Moscow and debrief the returning scholars.

But some dedicated academic agents report regularly to "controls" in the United States. These are located in Soviet diplomatic and other offices in this country are called "Residentura," a KGB term roughly equivalent to "Resident Big Shot."

Although no one in the U.S. government would talk with us on the record about the scholar-spies, most of them in scientific studies, their connection with the KGB is well known to American officials. It is only their campus classmates and colleagues who are kept in the dark.

One reason for the official silence: Whether the scholars remain in academia or slip over into full-time intelligence work, the U.S. government feels their understanding of America's free way of life will do more overall good than harm.

Another reason is that American intelligence agencies also attempt to debrief U.S. students and teachers returning from Communist lands. In fact, say our sources, the CIA has tens of thousands, perhaps as many as 100,000 such reports on file. The difference is that American scholars can refuse to cooperate with our intelligence interrogators.

NEWSLETTER RACKET: By our calculations, more than 148.5 million newsletters are mailed out from Capitol Hill each year. Most of them are spiced with political propaganda, which is intended to impress the voters how noble their respective congressmen are.

This dubious political instruction costs the taxpayers millions of dollars, an expenditure that amounts to a special subsidy to help keep the incumbents in office. For few prospective challengers can afford regular mailings to keep their names before the voters between campaigns.

Two of our reporters, Sarah Larson and Tom Martin, surveyed over two-thirds of the members of the House to find out how the newsletter racket operates. Here are the results:

--Most congressional newsletters are written by staff members, where salaries are paid by the taxpayers. By disguising the political content a little, congressmen are also able to mail their newsletters under the franking privilege, which permits them merely to sign their first-class mail. This free postage for newsletters costs the taxpayers an estimated $15 million every year.

--The taxpayers, however, don't pay the paper and printing costs, which run around $1.5 million a year. Most congressmen find someone else to stick for these bills.

--We found 31 Democrats and 15 Republicans who dip into their government stationery allowance to pay for their newsletters. The $6,500 stationery account is supposed to be used for office supplies. But this is an allowance so curiously unrestricted that a congressman may pocket the entire amount if he wishes.

--Another 34 Republicans and 27 Democrats have raised special funds to pay their newsletter production costs. In the post-Watergate spirit, most were willing to disclose the list of contributors. But 10 congressmen publish newsletters with secret funds.

The 10 are Tom Befill, D.-Ala., Dominick Daniels, D.-N.J., William Dickinson, R-Ala., William Hudnut III, R.-Ind., Dale Milford, D.-Tex., G.V. Montgomery, D.-Miss., Carlos Moorhead, R.-Calif., Daniel Rostenkowski, D.-Ill., John Rousselot, R.-Calif., and Joe Skubitz, R.-Kan.

Milford claimed he was forbidden by Texas law from revealing his contributors. Butanother Texas congressman, J.J. Pickle, D.-Tex., saw no legal obstacle to listing his contributors.

--Another 19 Republicans and 18 Democrats finance their newsletters out of left-over campaign funds. Twelve Democrats and seven Republicans use general office funds. Republicans also have a special public relations fund, which is used by 55 Republicans to pay for their newsletters.

Footnote: The four most secretive congressmen, who refused to give out any information at all about their newsletters, were Charles Chamberlain, R.-Mich., Norman Lent, R.-N.Y., Wright Patman, D.-Tex., and Sam Steiger, R.-Ariz.

Sears medicine cabinets produce electrical shock

Washington, D.C.--Owners of nearly 9,000 Sears and Kent medicine cabinets with built-in electrical outlets purchased since September 1974 are urged to return them due to a potential shock hazard.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has been informed that some of the electrical outlets may have been improperly assembled, which could result in a serious shock when consumers use an appliance with a three-prong grounded plug. It is also possible that a shock hazard could exist if the medicine cabinet itself is not properly installed.

The cabinets were manufactured by the Kent Division, LCA Corp. Bellevue, Ky.

The potential hazard was reported to the commission by H.H. Flourescent Parts, Inc. of Cheltenham, Pa., manufacturers of the outlet. No injuries have been reported.

The cabinets were sold under the Kent name through independent distributors, jobbers and retailers east of Salt Lake City and throughout the nation under the Sears name by Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Only cabinets sold since September 1974 are involved. Prices ranged from $50 to $160, depending on the model.

Ann Landers

Divorcee starved for love proves suicide is painless

Dear Ann Landers: A love-starved divorcee attempted or, more accurately, pretended to attempt suicide to get attention from my husband, on whom she has a heavy crush. (He is an internist.) She swallowed a half bottle of sleeping pills and telephoned our home during dinner, told him what she had done and announced, "I have nothing to live for." I think if she had really meant to kill herself she would have taken twice as many pills and not telephoned anyone.

My husband rushed to thi s nut's home (not far from here) and drove her to the emergency room of the hospital and had her stomach pumped. Of course, she was delighted with the attention.

Last Friday she phoned at midnight with the same story, but my husband was out on an emergency so I called the Police Rescue Squad and asked them to go over and get her and take her to the hospital.

The next day, all hell broke loose. The woman threatened to sue me for humiliating her and embroiling her in "bad publicity." My husband says I should have phoned another physician. He feels sorry for the woman.

Any advice--for anybody?--Muddled Min

Dear Min: That lady needs another doctor all right--a psychiatrist. And your husband should inform her that she is no longer his patient. A physician who permits such dependency is actually encouraging the patient, whether he realizes it or not. this is not ethical medicine.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for publishing the attorney's letter relating to the indifference of young kids today towards the elders in the family circle.

I'm in the same boat. I have an estate worth about $75,000 and no one to leave it to. Oh, there are a flock of grandnieces and nephews, and when they were children and their parents brought them over to visit regularly. But now that they are in their late teens and early 20s they don't even drop in to say hello.

I am retired, living on combined Social Security and company pension which comes to about $350 a month. My cash assets are mostly government E bonds and CD's and I have no need to draw on them. The house is worth about $20,000 --paid for. So who gets the boodle? The Scoiety for Blind Mice, as far as I'm concerned.

A year ago one of my nieces came in to borrow something. I jokingly asked, "Why don't you come more often and maybe wash some windows? The house will be yours one day." (I had her earmarked for $25,000 and tried to give her a hint.) She smiled and said nothing. I haven't seen her since. Incidentally, she lives six miles from here. Funny, isn't it?--Unk

Dear Unk: Yeah--but not very. If nobody shapes up soon, forget about the Blind Mice. I know of an organization called Daialogue Publications, Inc. It's for blind people. They do a marvelous job of distributing talking records and helping the sightless in a variety of ways. This organization desperately needs money. The address is: 3100 Oak Park Boulevard, Berwyn, Illinois 60402.

The meeting on Tooth Fairy Price Controls was called when Buster Ormstead, age 7, bragged he got $2.50 for a central incisor and 40 second graders started punching one another in the mouth trying to raise enough money for a field trip to Disneyland.

The riot on the playground only triggered the meeting. Parents have seen it coming for some time now...the gradual rise in money for used teeth. First, a penny, then a fat nickel, a shiny dime, a new silver dollar and finally a personal check with a note attached begging, "Do not cash until after the 15th."

About 40 of us met the other night in Ralph Ormstead's living room. "I called this meeting," he explained, "because I feel responsible for what happened today on the playground. Since noon I have tried to contact President Ford and several members of his cabinet. The only one who responded was Earl Butz who had an amusing story about a Tooth Fairy who went into a swinging singles bar and ordered a drink for a talking dog."

"You can share that with us after the formal meeting, Ralph," said a voice.

"Right. Before we talk about price control as a way of establishing a stable tooth economy, I think we should know what kind of figures we are dealing with." He passed out a mimeographed paper for us to study.

Dental maintenance, 2,000.00

Tooth Fairy, 2.50

TOTAL, $7,908.50

"Multiply that by 20 primary teeth that eventually fall out and you have a total of $158,170," said Ralph.

The entire room fell silent as each of us absorbed the cost of subsidizing a child's mouth. "Maybe we can market the teeth and recap some of our losses," said Charlie.

The way things have been going lately, I wouldn't be surprised if Russia owned the gums.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl M. Heisserer

ORAN--Miss Barbara Diane Curtis and Karl Michael Heisserer were married Jan. 4 in a double-ring ceremony at Guardian Angel Catholic Church. The Rev. Richard Rolwing officiated.

Cathedral candles in brass holders, two seven-branch arched candelabra, a pair of triple-branched candelabra, vases of ferns and white satin bows decorated the church sanctuary.

Organist Elaine Jackson of Morley accompanied Janet Stanfield of Painton, who sang, "Sunrise, Sunset", as the bride was escorted down the white carpeted, candlelighted aisle by her father.

The bride wore a candlelight, formal jersey gown styled with a fitted bodice. The high neckline featured a deep V-insert of English net encrusted with seed pearls and sea crystals and an A-line skirt swept to a circular chapel-length train. A Camelot cap of lace and pearls was attached to a full-length veil edged with double lace of imported illusion.

She carried a bouquet of orchids, red roses and stephanotis accented with camellia foilage and ivory satin streamers.

During the ceremony, Miss Stanfield sang, "The Lord's Prayer", and Rodney LeGrand sang, "Wedding Song", then joined his brother Mike to sing duet arrangements of "Follow Me and "Annie Song" while playing their guitars.

Lynn Swaboda of Washington, Mo., was maid of honor. She wore a long-sleeved burgundy gown trimmed in pink and burgundy floral jersey. She carried three long-stemmed pink roses with greenery and ribbons.

Bridesmaids were R.M.S.N. Karla Curtis of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, sister of the bride; Mrs. Jan Barbaglia of Houston, Tex.; Susan Curtis, sister of the bride, and Dolores Heisserer, sister of the bridegroom, both of Oran; and Mrs. Debbie Stites of Decatur, Ill.

They wore floral pink jersey gowns accented with burgundy collars, cuffs and sashes. Each woman carried a long-stemmed red rose.

Best man was Melvin Heisserer, brother of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Grover "Fritz" Gnagey and Rodney LeGrand of Rolla; Stephen Ressel of Kelso; Mike LeGrand of Cape Girardeau; and Billy Joe Holmes of Oran.

The mother of the bride wore a green and white shirtwaisted formal gown of double knitand a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of royal blue knit with a corsage of pink roses.

Candlelighters were Melvin Curtis of Oran, brother of the bride, and William Arnold of Jonesboro, Ill. Ushers were Alan Curtis of St. Louis and Mark G Ressel of Kelso.

Shirley Hanstein attended the guest book.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the Holiday Inn at Cape Girardeau. A buffet supper was served and dancing followed.

Mrs. Heisserer attended University of Missouri-Columbia and Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, majoring in home economics.

Heisserer is a senior engineering management major at University of Missouri-Rolla.

Following a short honeymoon, the couple is living at Rolla.

Parent-Child Interaction Project

Extension class to help parents instruct children

By MARY JO HERDE
Area Child and Family Development Specialist

BENTON — The parent of the young child is his first teacher. The 3- and 4-year-old has much to learn about the world around him — What color is blue? What is a square shaped like? Does the word "same" have meaning? The preschool parent can learn from his child as he enjoys and fulfill his role of teacher.

The University of Missouri Extension Center, Benton, is sponsoring a Parent-Child Interaction Project in the Bootheel area to aid parents in becoming more effective teachers. It is tentatively scheduled for late January or early February. The parents of 3- and 4-year-olds are invited to participate in this program free of charge. All learning "toys" will be provided and loaned to the parent for use with his child. There will be weekly training sessions, which I will conduct.

Parents join in scheduled sessions where a child and family development specialist presents a video tape which describes one of the nine toys or games and tells which skills the toy is designed to develop. The parents can talk about the learning experiences of their children. After each session, parents return the toy (made by area individuals, and take home a new toy. Group-sharing of the ways children responded or thought of new ways to play with the games and group support are a vital part of the program.

Games and toys vary from sets of small cans, which parents fill with different objects and shake to let the child learn the difference by ear between the "same" and "not the same," to a simple game of color lotto, which enables a child to pick up an understanding of colors by matching colored squares with those on a lotto board.

The belief that parents are not just the best available teachers, but probably the best teachers of all for their own children is shared by more and more early childhood researchers. This is especially true when the relationship between parent and child extends longer than a mere three-hour preschool day, even if both parents work.

Nearly all children who participated in last year's project made gains in color and number recognition, size relationships and other basic prekindergarten skills.

Getting across new skills has not been the most important object of the library. Such teaching is a means of improving interaction between parents and children. It bolsters the confidence of parents in their ability to help their child and intheir child's ability to achieve.

One mother said, "I thought he was a little slow, but now I see he can make it, and I feel he feels he can too. You have to appreciate each child at his level." This is just the confidence that a child needs to be able to do well in school. Perhaps it is this confidence- building aspect of the program that is its strongest point.

Perhaps, what is just as important, is that throughout all the sessions and video tapes, parents are encouraged not to push. Learning should be fun and it is perfectly natural for a child to flub something or weary of "playing."

The games from the project are constructed to allow a child to "always be right." This does more than relax parents, it instills self'confidence in the child and fires the desire for more learning. Some parents who have completed the program feel less need for the toys to initiate learning.

"Now that I feel freer about my little girl and me," said one mother, "we just make up our own things." This is the purpose of the Parent-Child Interaction Project: to increase awareness and understanding of how a child learns, and that how a child feels about himself and his ability to learn determines to a great extent just what he will learn and how he will relate to the world.

The Parent-Child Interaction Project consists of nine video tapes (each 10 to 15 minutes long), which explain each of the toys. The toys are: Sound cans, color lotto, feelie bag, attribute blocks, learning squares, comparison blocks, number puzzle, color blocks and matching board.

This will be a new resource in early childhood education and family relations from the University of Missouri Extension Center. Toys and blocks have been made by community clubs, home ec extension clubs and volunteers. All are made of wood, masonite or cloth.

The project will run in the Bootheel and in four other areas of the state. Anyone desiring further information or wishing to be involved should contact Miss Mary Jo Herde, phone 545-3516, or write the University of Missouri Extension Center in the Scott County Courthouse, P.O. Box 187, Benton, Mo. 63736.

Billie Jean clobbered

Chris Evert named AP Athlete of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Billie Jean King long has contended that popularity, not ability, determines who is named Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year, but she couldn't argue that the 1974 winner, Chris Evert, had not earned it.

Miss Evert polished off her last year as a teen-ager by winning 15 of 22 tournaments she entered, including Wimbledon and the French Open, and earned a record $250,000-plus in official money.

And she clobbered Ms. King, 6-1, 6-1, in the final of the $75,000 women's indoor tournament in San Francisco last weekend. It was the 1975 debut for both. For Chris, still on the rise after only four years as an international player, 1975 is a year of great expectations. And it is a year which may spell the end of a long, successful career for the 32-year-old Ms. King.

"Why not?" Ms. King asked, more to herself than anyone, when told that the woman who already replaced her as the No. 1 woman tennis player in the world also would succeed her as the No. 1 woman athlete in the eyes of American journalists.

"Chris is just so consistent ... she doesn't make too many spectacular shots, but she doesn't have to," said Ms. King.

Miss Evert was the overwhelming favorite to receive the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Trophy with 296 votes compared with 97 for Ms. King.

"It's great," said Chris. "I've been in the running before, but I really didn't think I'd ever win it."

Last year, when Billie Jean won The AP athlete award for the second time since 1967, she called the voting a popularity contest. "I should have won it in 1971, the year Evonne Goolagong won it," she said. "I played some of the best tennis of my career that year.

"I knew I wouldn't win it in 1972 because that was an Olympic year."

The woman who did win it in 1972, Olympic gymnast Olga Korbut, finished third in the 1974 balloting and Miss Goolagong shared sixth place with ski champion Annemarie Proell. Teen-aged Mary Decker, who set two world indoor track records, was fourth, and golfer JoAnne Carner, winner of six Ladies' PGA tournaments and a record $87,000, was fifth.

Chris' interest in the women's movement also has increased her desire for independence. Ms. King says Chris has evolved from a giggly teen-ager who loved frills and ribbons into one of the most vociferous members and vice president of the Women's Tennis Association, which is making noises about boycotting Wimbledon if the purses aren't equal.

"What's the use of having a WTA if we don't stick together?" Chris asked, in answer to whether she would take part in the boycott. "I'd like to play Wimbledon but not if it's going to throw women's tennis back a few years."

MIAA unbeatens clash

Southeast and Central Missouri State Universities will meet at Warrensburg tonight in an early season Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball show-down. The Indians of Cape Girardeau will be bringing in a perfect 2-0 league record while Central's Mules, currently tops in the MIAA with a 96.6 scoring average, stand at 1-0.

In addition to pairing up two of the four undefeated MIAA teams, the game will also provide a rematch of the game between the same two clubs in first round action of the league's cage tournament earlier this month at Springfield. That encounter saw Southeast escape with a 105-100 shooting rampage and go on to take all the tourney chips.

Southeast and Central will not have much time to rest up after Friday's contest as both the Indians and Mules will be involved in Saturday engagements as well.

SEMO will be heading to Springfield to take on Southwest Missouri, winless in two conference trips thus far and second place finishers to Southeast in the MIAA tournament.

Central, meanwhile, will entertain University of Missouri- Rolla. Coach Billy Key's Miners have not been slouches in league play, chalking up a pair of victories in as many attempts.

The final Saturday game find Lincoln University at Kirksville in a game against Northeast Missouri. Lincoln is 1-0 in conference action while the Bearcats are 0-2.

Gilmer joins Big Red staff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Onetime collegiate passing standout Harry Gilmer was named today as assistant for the St. Louis Cardinals in charge of quarterbacks and receivers.

The 48-year-old Gilmer, also a former National Football League player and head coach, returns to the Cardinals following a five-season term with the Atlanta Falcons.

"As head coach, I wasn't able to work with our quarterbacks and receivers as much as I thought was necessary last year," said Don Coryell, who guided the Cardinals to the National Conference East title.

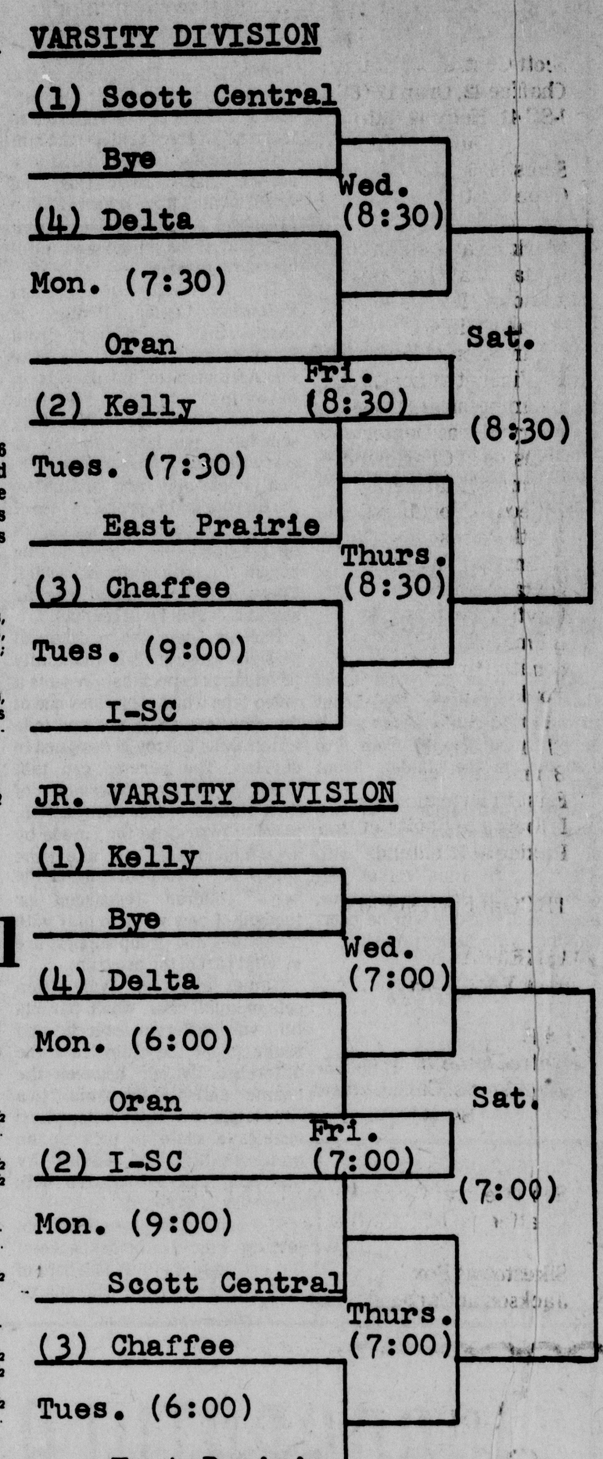

"Harry will be able to do this, and it's going to help us very much," Coryell added.

Gilmer, a collegiate standout at Alabama, was an NFL quarterback, running back and defensive back for the Washington Redskins and Detroit Lions between 1949 and 1956.

He was an assistant coach for the Pittsburgh Steelers beginning in 1957, joined the Minnesota Vikings staff in 1961 and later was head coach of the Lions in 1965 and '66.

Gilmer's NFL experience also included three seasons as the Cardinals' quarterback coach starting in 1967 before he joined the Falcons in 1970.

Scott-Mississippi league tourney at Oran

Oran hosts league meet

ORAN ----The Scott-Mississippi Conference tournament tips off Monday night with the Kelly Hawks seeded number one in the Junior Varsity bracket and Scott Central Braves tops in the varsity bracket.

Kelly and Scott Central met earlier on the OHS floor, and the Hawks came out on top in the Oran Invitational tournament by handing the Braves their first loss of the season. Kelly is seeded second in the varsity bracket and Illmo-Scott City is seeded second in the junior varsity bracket.

The Hawks junior varsity is bigger than the other teams with 6-4 Randy Hagar at the post position. I-SC has a scrappy team and may surprise the Hawks.

Even though the Hawks varsity owns a victory over Scott Central the Braves were picked by the coaches to finish on top.

Scott Central runs hot and cold. They might look great for a few minutes and just the opposite for the next few minutes. They always get plenty of shots at the bucket due to their press defense and their jumping ability. Kelly is a good shooting team when given opportunity to set up. Both teams like to run so the one which can make the fewest mistakes will take the championship if they should meet. Chaffee and Delta might have a lot to say about that.

The Chaffee Red Devils are seeded third and nearly beat the Braves in the Christmas tournament at Cape Girardeau. Delta has a good shooting team but are shorter than the Braves and Hawks but match height with the Red Devils. Delta is seeded fourth but has more shooters than Chaffee.

The Red Devils offense is built around guard Lindy Duncan, who is averaging more than 20 points a game and 6-6 David McConnell, who likes to work inside for the layup along the baseline.

The Bobcats have guard Nate Crowden and forward Mitch Stroder who coach Danny Kight likes to run his offense around. Delta is a good running, shooting team and likes to fastbreak.

Every team in the tournament likes to fastbreak with the exception of Illmo-Scott City, who doesn't have the speed of the others and must slow the game down.

The Stoddard County tournament and the New Madrid county tournament along with the Poplar Bluff Invitational tournament get underway January 27.

The Stoddard tournament will be at Bloomfield and the NMCo tourney will be at Matthews.

The County tournament at Senath and the Bootheel conference at North Pemiscot get underway February 10.

TENNIS

SARASOTA, Fla. — No. 1 Chris Evert defeated unseeded Racquel Giscafre 6-2, 6-1 and fourth-seeded Virginia Wade swept through her quarter-final match 6-3, 7-6 against fifth seed Nancy Gunter on the $75,000-Sarasota stop on the women's tennis tour, earning a Saturday berth against each other in the semifinals.

BALTIMORE — Unseeded Bob Lutz defeated Harold Solomon, the second seed, 6-2, 6-3 in the first round of the $30,000 Baltimore International Tennis Championship.

HUMACAO, P.R. — Bjorn Borg of Sweden smashed Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 3-6, 6-1, 6-0 in the quarter-finals of the CBS Tennis Classic.

GOLF

TUCSON, Ariz. — Johnny Miller shot a six-under-par 66 for a one-stroke first-round lead in the $200,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.

Less?

Less filling. Because Lite has less carbohydrates than our regular beer. And one-third less calories than our regular beer.

It's really less filling?

Really. If it wasn't we couldn't say so. And the people who've tried new Lite will tell you that Lite doesn't fill you up the way beer usually does. It feels like there's always room for one more.

Taste?

Lite tastes as crisp and refreshing and frosty as you could want a beer to taste. In fact, if we hadn't told you that Lite had less calories and less carbohydrates, and you tasted a glass, you'd never be able to tell it was different. Until you drank a few. Then the less filled-up feeling would tell you there was a difference.

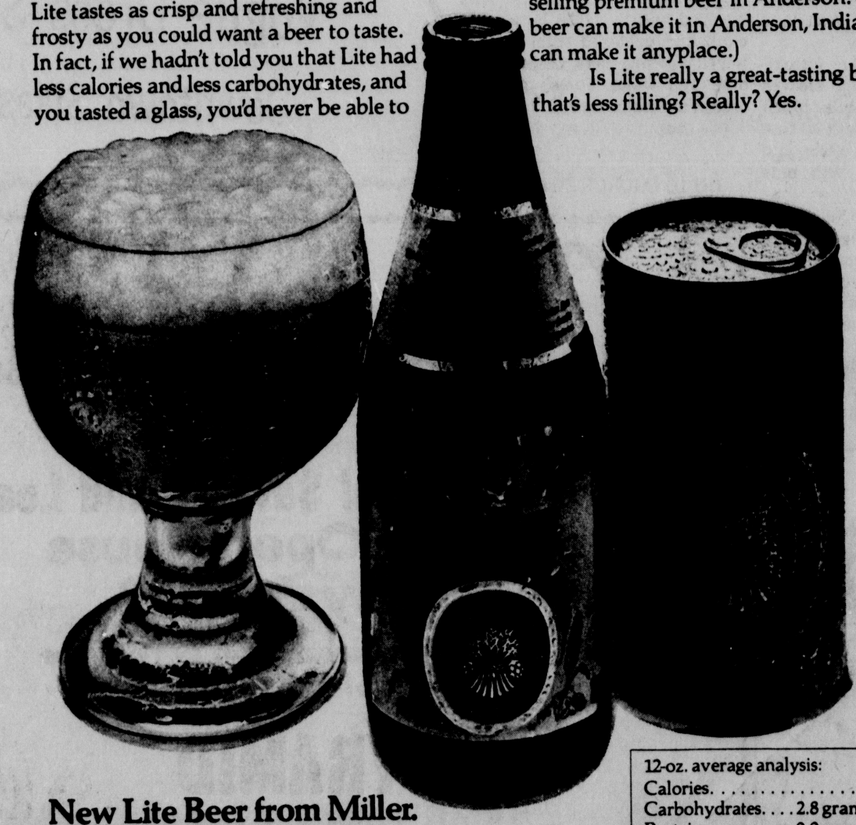

How can I be sure?

Anderson.

Anderson?

Anderson, Indiana. It's one of the places we first tried new Lite beer. It's a factory town of 85,000 where the people work hard and they take their beer seriously. And Lite is already the second largest selling premium beer in Anderson. (If a beer can make it in Anderson, Indiana, it can make it anyplace.)

Is Lite really a great-tasting beer that's less filling? Really? Yes.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

HOUSTON — Randy White, an All-American defensive tackle from Maryland, was named winner of the fifth annual Vince Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding lineman.

CROWN POINT, Ind. — Latty Pohlman, football coach at Crown Point High School the past three years, was named coach of the University of Dubuque, Iowa football team.

Gilmer joins Big Red staff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Onetime collegiate passing standout Harry Gilmer was named today as assistant for the St. Louis Cardinals in charge of quarterbacks and receivers.

The 48-year-old Gilmer, also a former National Football League player and head coach, returns to the Cardinals following a five-season term with the Atlanta Falcons.

"As head coach, I wasn't able to work with our quarterbacks and receivers as much as I thought was necessary last year," said Don Coryell, who guided the Cardinals to the National Conference East title.

"Harry will be able to do this, and it's going to help us very much," Coryell added.

Gilmer, a collegiate standout at Alabama, was an NFL quarterback, running back and defensive back for the Washington Redskins and Detroit Lions between 1949 and 1956.

He was an assistant coach for the Pittsburgh Steelers beginning in 1957, joined the Minnesota Vikings staff in 1961 and later was head coach of the Lions in 1965 and '66.

Gilmer's NFL experience also included three seasons as the Cardinals' quarterback coach starting in 1967 before he joined the Falcons in 1970.

Oran hosts league meet

ORAN ----The Scott-Mississippi Conference tournament tips off Monday night with the Kelly Hawks seeded number one in the Junior Varsity bracket and Scott Central Braves tops in the varsity bracket.

Kelly and Scott Central met earlier on the OHS floor, and the Hawks came out on top in the Oran Invitational tournament by handing the Braves their first loss of the season. Kelly is seeded second in the varsity bracket and Illmo-Scott City is seeded second in the junior varsity bracket.

The Hawks junior varsity is bigger than the other teams with 6-4 Randy Hagar at the post position. I-SC has a scrappy team and may surprise the Hawks.

Even though the Hawks varsity owns a victory over Scott Central the Braves were picked by the coaches to finish on top.

Scott Central runs hot and cold. They might look great for a few minutes and just the opposite for the next few minutes. They always get plenty of shots at the bucket due to their press defense and their jumping ability. Kelly is a good shooting team when given opportunity to set up. Both teams like to run so the one which can make the fewest mistakes will take the championship if they should meet. Chaffee and Delta might have a lot to say about that.

The Chaffee Red Devils are seeded third and nearly beat the Braves in the Christmas tournament at Cape Girardeau Delta has a good shooting team but are shorter than the Braves and Hawks but match height with the Red Devils. Delta is seeded fourth but has more shooters than Chaffee.

The Red Devils offense is built around guard Lindy Duncan, who is averaging more than 20 points a game and 6-6 David McConnell, who likes to work inside for the layup along the baseline.

The Bobcats have guard Nate Crowden and forward Mitch Stroder who coach Danny Kight likes to run his offense around. Delta is a good running, shooting team and likes to fastbreak.

Every team in the tournament likes to fastbreak with the exception of Illmo-Scott City, who doesn't have the speed of the others and must slow the game down.

The Stoddard County tournament and the New Madrid county tournament along with the Poplar Bluff Invitational tournament get underway January 27.

The Stoddard tournament will be at Bloomfied and the NMCo tourney will be at Matthews.

The County tournament at Senath and the Bootheel conference at North Pemiscot get underway February 10.

TENNIS

SARASOTA, Fla. — No. 1 Chris Evert defeated unseeded Racquel Giscafre 6-2, 6-1 and fourth-seeded Virginia Wade swept through her quarter-final match 6-3, 7-6 against fifth seed Nancy Gunter on the $75,000-Sarasota stop on the women's tennis tour, earning a Saturday berth against each other in the semifinals.

BALTIMORE — Unseeded Bob Lutz defeated Harold Solomon, the second seed, 6-2, 6-3 in the first round of the $30,000 Baltimore International Tennis Championship.

HUMACAO, PR. — Bjorn Borg of Sweden smashed Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 3-6, 6-1, 6-0 in the quarter-finals of the CBS Tennis Classic.

GOLF

TUCSON, Ariz. — Johnny Miller shot a six-under-par 66 for a one-stroke first-round lead in the $200,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.

Less?
Less filling. Because Lite has less carbohydrates than our regular beer. And one-third less calories than our regular beer.

It's really less filling?
Really. If it wasn't we couldn't say so. And the people who've tried new Lite will tell you that Lite doesn't fill you up the way beer usually does. It feels like there's always room for one more.

Taste?
Lite tastes as crisp and refreshing and frosty as you could want a beer to taste. In fact, if we hadn't told you that Lite had less calories and less carbohydrates, and you tasted a glass, you'd never be able to tell it was different. Until you drank a few. Then the less filled-up feeling would tell you there was a difference.

How can I be sure?
Anderson.
Anderson?
Anderson, Indiana. It's one of the places we first tried new Lite beer. It's a factory town of 85,000 where the people work hard and they take their beer seriously. And Lite is already the second largest selling premium beer in Anderson. (If a beer can make it in Anderson, Indiana, it can make it anyplace.)

Is Lite really a great-tasting beer that's less filling? Really? Yes.

I guess everybody has had a good laugh after seeing my predictions on Wednesday after I missed so many on Tuesday night. I'm still crying. There was a mix up and I didn't intend for anyone to see how bad I missed the games Tuesday.

My face is a little bit red oversome of the predictions but I wasn't too far wrong. I know that being prejudice doesn't help your favorite team to win though.

I'm still shaking my head over the Bulldogs loss to Notre Dame. Sikeston scored 80 points against the ND Bulldogs vaunted 1-2-2 zone defense, the seme defense that other teams have been struggling to score 50 against, but still lost. Sikeston has some of the best shooters in the area but they must realize that you don't win games by trading baskets.

Maybe I can have a better future predicting than history.

Clarkton at Malden -- I've seen both teams in action and Malden will blow the Reindeer off the court -- 85-60.

Delta C-7 at Holcomb -- The Chargers look sure winners -- 70-60.

Meadow Heights at Oran -- The Eagles have had their ups and down lately but should handle the Panthers rather easily -- 75-65.

Clearwater at Neelyville -- The Tigers are a little scrappy team and win their share of ball games and should have no trouble with the Tigers from Clearwater -- 75-60.

Perryville at Dexter -- The Pirates had better not use the same strategy against the Bearcatsthat they did against Cape Central. The Bearcats should win but it will be close -- 65-60.

Sikeston at Charleston -- The Bulldogs should have little trouble with the now famous zone trap that the Bluejays employ. Coach Mitch Haskins likes to play slow down ball and look for the easy shots near the basket. Sikeston likes to run and shoot. Charleston doesn't have as good shooters as Sikeston but on the other hand Sikeston doesn't play good defense. Now that I've saidall that the results are bound to be just the opposite right? I pick Charleston -- 60-55.

Parma at Matthews -- Parma doesn't play defense like the New Madrid Indians so I pick the Pirates -- 75-70.

Gideon at Portageville -- The Bulldogs should win this one -- 70-60.

North Pemiscot at Caruthersville -- This should be a most interesting game. Both teams can shoot from outcourt. The Tigers have big Pedro Spicer. The Mustangs have nearly as big Ray Norris. I pick the Mustangs becaue of Jerry Stewart -- 70-65.

Kennett at Cape Central -- The Central Tigers are as unpredictable as anyone this year. They lost to Charleston by one point and then beat the Blue Jays by 10. Kennett has everything it takes to handle all the Tigers -- 75-65.

Delta at Notre Dame -- Sikeston made the Bulldogs look good Tuesday night. Delta is a good running team and has the shooters to go over the zone. I pick ND because of their defense -- 75-70.

Hayti at Cooter -- The Indians of course -- 75-60.

Bismarck at Arcadia Valley -- AV has my nod -- 70-66.

Senath-Hornersville at Campbell -- The Lions play good solid ball and they should have no trouble beating the Camels -- 65-60.

Poplar Bluff at Jackson--This is a hard one to call. Both teams are big inside. Neither team has outstanding outside shooters. I like Scott Harrell and Robert Dodd over Jackson's big boys -- 60-55.

Bloomfield at Risco -- The Tigers are took fast for the Wildcats. Risco beat the Wildcats at Bernie earlier and should not have as much trouble in this one -- 75-60.

Chaffee at Oak Ridge -- This should be a close game. I think the Jays will come out on top -- 70-67.

Bernie at Advance -- The Hornets got plenty of free throw shooting practice at Delta Tuesday as did the Bobcats to the Mules had better beware of fouls. AVHS should have little trouble in this one -- 85-50.

East Prairie at Kelly -- The Hawks will have their hands full with Grady Wiliford and Donald Dixon. The Eagles don't play good enough defense to beat the Hawks though -- 80-70.

Lilbourn at Scott Central -- Earlier in the year the Braves might have had a chance but not now. Ronnie Cookson will have to do some good recruiting before the 8 o'clock starting time to win this one. Lilbourn is unbeatable -- 80-70.

Puxico at Richland -- This is an even match. I'm going to pick the Rebels because of home court -- 66-60.

Don't force your kids to church, theologian says

NEW YORK (AP) — Parents should never compel their children to go to church, in the opinion of a noted Lutheran theologian. But a lot of parents don't agree with him.

The Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, dean of the University of Chicago Divinity School and a father of a daughter and five sons, all of whom have been regular churchgoers voluntarily, puts the matter crisply:

"Don't force your kids to go to church. Ever. Don't cheat. Subtle force is as bad as forceful force."

An authority on church history, Dr. Marty says that forced church attendance has caused many young people to break away "from even the best signals that the church might emit." He adds: "Interview the turned-off young, and you will find that their image of repression and force by parents and leaders who represented self-seeking institutions goaded them into negation more than did the world' distractions or the 'death of God' or any ... more colorful explanations ..."

Furthermore, he says, forcing them to attend worship services "is contrary to the nature of the way God intrudes in our lives, the way Christ comes, the way the Spirit works."

However, most of a sampling of Protestant and Roman Catholic parents takes a different view. "Those parents who occasionally find it necessary to force themselves owe their children the same treatment," says a Downers Grove, Ill., father.

Dr. Marty's views and reactions to them were set forth in U.S. Catholic, published by the Claretian Fathers, and A.D., published by the United Presbyterian Church and the United Church of Christ.

An advance sampling of readers showed a majority, 64 per cent of Catholics and 57 per cent of Protestants, say: "It never hurt me to be forced to attend church as a child."

A minority, 42 per cent of Catholics and 12 per cent of Protestants, agreed they oppose "forcing children to go to church." Most take other varying positions, although many voiced the lament of a New Mexico mother who wrote:

"We forced our son to go to church. As soon as he left the parental roof, he left the church."

Dr. Marty says "sending" children to church without the parents also going is even more harmful than forced attendance in parental company and has "helped assure a generation of church dropouts."

"Most of us have a latent Prussian streak that says we can get some ideas across as long as we're still bigger'n they are," he observes.

He says he doesn't go along with "soft-headed permissiveness" or the idea that youngsters "instinctively know what is right," but that "spiritual force-feeding" simply is not the way to open them to spiritual realities.

Scripture: John 6:35-51; 11:1-53

THE LORD OF LIFE

Everyone needs to believe in something or in someone.

Today's Scripture helps us to place our faith in Jesus, who revealed His concern over human death and our personal grief. We also see that Jesus rejects no one who believes in Him.

Much mystery remains about the authorship of the Gospel according to John. Yet The Interpreter's Commentary notes that "The very fecundity of critical and devotional commentary which the Gospel has evoked is perhaps its strongest claim to an authentic inspiration."

Many historians conclude that John, the son of Zebedee, wrote this book. However, we are more concerned with what was written rather than who wrote it.

John was concerned with stressing the message of Jesus' divinity or diety. He wanted the new Christians to understand the principles involved. He wanted to protect these persons from false ideas.

There are four main discussion topics here:

(1) The arrival of Jesus in Bethany, his "second home". This apparently was delayed to permit Him to be with Martha and Mary in their sorrow over the death of Lazarus.

(2) The faith of Martha. Her views of the role of Jesus represent more faith in Him than most of those who heard His message.

For example, Martha believed her brother Lazarus would rise again in the resurrection. Only a few persons at that time voiced such beliefs of survival after death.

Martha also displayed great faith when she told Jesus, "If you had been here, my brother would not have died."

(3) The raising of Lazarus. Little knowledge is available about Lazarus. This may be better since it permits one to focus on the incident more than on the individual.

Jesus underwent a great test in the resurrection of Lazarus, who had been dead for four days. This event adds another dimension of life on earth that Jesus had demonstrated earlier.

Jesus had been shown to us as being a compassionate brother, an effective teacher, and a suffering savior. Now He displayed His power to overcome death, thus proving His way to eternal life.

(4) The power of the Lord to bring new life in 1975.

Contemporary man continues to search for meaning and self-identity in his relationship to a new life with Christ.

Unfortunately, there are too many who believe in God only when all goes well. When we encounter suffering or tragedy we fail to display the faith shown by Martha.

We like to believe in such good news as the raising of Lazarus. We need to reinforce our belief from time to time by reading of the many miracles that occur daily.

However, we fail to realize these miracles for what they are. We read of the major accidents, wars, and other tragedies. But we seldom think enough about the good things that happen.

We read of unemployed persons; we seldom read of the record number of employed. We read of many divorces; we seldom read of the millions of happily-married couples.

Jesus was termed a blasphemer by some; to others He was the long-awaited Messiah. He was executed by the so-called "good" people; he was mourned by only a few believers.

James A. Martin Jr. wrote that "Offended pride; disappointed hopes; evil exposed by love; the need to destroy that which threatens established securities of private and public life -- all of these were at work in the execution of Jesus".

In return, Jesus left us with hope, love, and the promise of everlasting life for the believers.

Crisis in Catholic priesthood feared

NEW YORK (AP) — Experts say the Roman Catholic Church is headed into a severe crisis in maintaining its priesthood in this country — with the numbers preparing for that role at the lowest level in recent history.

While resignations of priests have contributed to the problem, the main threat is seen in the sharply reduced entries of students into training for the ministry.

That means the full impact of the crunch is still to come — in five to 10 years from now, according to a study presented to a recent convention in St. Louis of the National Conference of Diocesan Vocation Directors.

The report said the number of students entering Catholic seminaries has dropped 50 per cent in the last seven years, indicating that the output of new priests to replace others will be halved in the near future.

With that prospect ahead, the more than 170 church vocation directors from across the country proposed that married priests be reinstated to 5he active ministry "in some official church-recognized capacity."

This is precisely what many married former priests have urged.

An organization of them, the Fellowship of Christian Ministries, has as its prime goal the recognition of the status of married priests. The group is headed by William J. Manseau, who teaches at Chicago Theological Seminary, a Protestant institution.

The Catholic vocation directors called for reinstatement of priests who "found it necessary to leave the active ministry and who retain a desire to serve God's people through their ordained ministry and who find their married status as the only obstacle to such ministry."

Although the number of priests in this country has fallen only 3,180 from its peak of 59,892 in 1967, the resignations in the past nine years have been estimated at close to 10,000, with most of the loss made up by new replacements.

But a cloud was cast over the replacement process in the years ahead by the shrinkage in the training of new priests.

Official statistics show that there now are 19,348 students in Catholic seminaries and novitiates.

170. God's Judgment on Jeroboam

When Abijah, the son of Jeroboam, became very ill, the king ordered the queen to disguise herself and travel to Shiloh and take food and gifts to Ahijah, the prophet who had told Jeroboam he would be crowned king. The queen was to discover the fate of Abijah. Although Ahijah was an old, blind man, the Lord had prepared him for this visit.

As the queen knocked on the door, Ahijah readily identified her, and asked her why she had pretended to be someone else. Then, he began to deliver God's warning to Jeroboam, for Jeroboam had turned to the worship of idols and golden calves.

Ahijah then prophesied the downfall of Jeroboam's kingdom, the death of his sons, and great turmoil and strife. Ahijah informed the queen that only the ill Abijah, of all of Jeroboam's sons, would die peacefully. He concluded by saying, "Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat: for the Lord hath spoken it." (I Kings 14:11)

Don't force your kids to church, theologian says

NEW YORK (AP) — Parents should never compel their children to go to church, in the opinion of a noted Lutheran theologian. But a lot of parents don't agree with him.

The Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, dean of the University of Chicago Divinity School and a father of a daughter and five sons, all of whom have been regular churchgoers voluntarily, puts the matter crisply:

"Don't force your kids to go to church. Ever. Don't cheat. Subtle force is as bad as forceful force."

An authority on church history, Dr. Marty says that forced church attendance has caused many young people to break away "from even the best signals that the church might emit." He adds: "Interview the turned-off young, and you will find that their image of repression and force by parents and leaders who represented self-seeking institutions goaded them into negation more than did the world' distractions or the 'death of God' or any ... more colorful explanations ..."

Furthermore, he says, forcing them to attend worship services "is contrary to the nature of the way God intrudes in our lives, the way Christ comes, the way the Spirit works."

However, most of a sampling of Protestant and Roman Catholic parents takes a different view. "Those parents who occasionally find it necessary to force themselves owe their children the same treatment," says a Downers Grove, Ill., father.

Dr. Marty's views and reactions to them were set forth in U.S. Catholic, published by the Claretian Fathers, and A.D., published by the United Presbyterian Church and the United Church of Christ.

An advance sampling of readers showed a majority, 64 per cent of Catholics and 57 per cent of Protestants, say: "It never hurt me to be forced to attend church as a child."

A minority, 42 per cent of Catholics and 12 per cent of Protestants, agreed they oppose "forcing children to go to church." Most take other varying positions, although many voiced the lament of a New Mexico mother who wrote:

"We forced our son to go to church. As soon as he left the parental roof, he left the church."

Dr. Marty says "sending" children to church without the parents also going is even more harmful than forced attendance in parental company and has "helped assure a generation of church dropouts."

"Most of us have a latent Prussian streak that says we can get some ideas across as long as we're still bigger'n they are," he observes.

He says he doesn't go along with "soft-headed permissiveness" or the idea that youngsters "instinctively know what is right," but that "spiritual force-feeding" simply is not the way to open them to spiritual realities.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Jan. 17, the 17th day of 1975. There are 348 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1945, in World War II, Soviet troops and Polish patriot forces liberated Warsaw, more than five years after it had fallen to the Nazis.

On this date — In 1707, Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston.

In 1773, James Cook became the first explorer to cross the Antarctic Circle.

In 1893, Hawaii was proclaimed a republic.

In 1917, the United States bought the American Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million.

In 1950, gunmen held up the building of the Brink's armored car service in Boston and escaped with $1.5 million in cash and checks.

In 1959, the African state of Mali was created by union of the republics of Senegal and French Sudan.

Ten years ago: There were clashes in the South Vietnamese cities of Hue and Dalat as Buddhist and student groups demonstrated against the government.

Five years ago: In Nigeria, the threat of die-hard guerrilla fighting in Biafra faded as beaten soldiers began turning in their weapons for food.

One year ago: Egypt and Israel reached an agreement on the separation of their fighting forces along the Suez Canal.

Today's birthday: Former Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach is 53.

Thought for today: Men are more interesting than women, but women are more fascinating. — James Thurber, American cartoonist and writer, 1894-1961.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Jan. 17, the 17th day of 1975. There are 348 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1945, in World War II, Soviet troops and Polish patriot forces liberated Warsaw, more than five years after it had fallen to the Nazis.

On this date — In 1707, Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston.

In 1773, James Cook became the first explorer to cross the Antarctic Circle.

In 1893, Hawaii was proclaimed a republic.

In 1917, the United States bought the American Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million.

In 1950, gunmen held up the building of the Brink's armored car service in Boston and escaped with $1.5 million in cash and checks.

In 1959, the African state of Mali was created by union of the republics of Senegal and French Sudan.

Ten years ago: There were clashes in the South Vietnamese cities of Hue and Dalat as Buddhist and student groups demonstrated against the government.

Five years ago: In Nigeria, the threat of die-hard guerrilla fighting in Biafra faded as beaten soldiers began turning in their weapons for food.

One year ago: Egypt and Israel reached an agreement on the separation of their fighting forces along the Suez Canal.

Today's birthday: Former Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach is 53.

Thought for today: Men are more interesting than women, but women are more fascinating. — James Thurber, American cartoonist and writer, 1894-1961.

What's the law?

The case of the fanatical baker

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Herman was a wholesale baker in a small and complacent area where no one was particularly aggressive and no one ever lost his cool, not even Herman, despite his hot ovens.

Then one day a large national baking company decided to expand its operation into Herman's territory. And in doing so it not only began to market multiple variations of Herman's best cakes and breads, it began throwing around more dough on advertising than it baked in its stoves.

Panicked, Herman raced off to court for help.

"They're trying to squeeze me out of business," he complained to a judge, "and obtain a monopoly in the area. They should be ordered to stop their lunatic spending."

"If he can't take the heat," responded an official of the national baking company, "Herman should get out of the kitchen. Competition in business is as American as apple pie and coffee. Whether he likes it or not, we can be as fanatical as we want in spending money to advertise our products and nobody can stop us."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the fanatical baker to stop spending its money so freely?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that competing fairly and aggressively, regardless of the consequence to rivals, is not prohibited by law. However, noted the judge, it is a violation of law to intentionally monopolize or to try to monopolize a market and to exclude competition, which is what the national baking company was trying to do with its multitudiness duplication of Herman's products and its tremendous expenditures for advertising.

Curators say unions infringe on their power

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP) — University of Missouri curators said Thursday before the state Supreme Court that university labor unions had "infringed" on their powers to run the university.

Curator attorneys asked the high court to exempt the curators from two measures dealing with written contracts and bargaining.

But an attorney for the university's nonacademic workers union said the measures didn't hamper the curators because the curators had the option of rejecting any contract offers.

By law, public employes aren't permitted to strike. The curators who are appointed by the governor run the university.

The university is appealing a lower court decision that allows the university to bargain for a written contract with nonacademic workers.

University workers went on strike in October 1972 after the curators refused to sign a contract with the workers. Violence erupted during picketing of a university supplies building.

About the illegal strike, Judge Fred L. Henley said, "To violate the law and pay the penalty is popular. But that doesn't settle the problem. That's just permissiveness."

Union attorney Scott O. Wright said, "There's nothing worse you can do to a group of human beings than ignore them. That's what the curators are doing."

Bond outlines plan to create new jobs

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo (AP)—Gov. Christopher S Bond has outlined three ways the state can help create new jobs, thus easing the economic situation.

Bond spoke Thursday night at the annual chamber of commerce banquet in this south-central Missouri town.

He repeated a comment made earlier to the opening legislative session that economic development--specifically more jobs--is the highest priority facing state government.

Bond called for strong marketing at home, to encourage the expansion of companies already in Missouri.

He called for a solid national marketing campaign to attract new industry to the state.

And the governor called for a program of finding new markets abroad for Missouri products and of gaining foreign investment in the state.

Bond told about 250 persons at the banquet that an agressive community spirit is the key factor in obtaining new industrial and business development.

Curators say unions infringe on their power

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP) — University of Missouri curators said Thursday before the state Supreme Court that university labor unions had "infringed" on their powers to run the university.

Curator attorneys asked the high court to exempt the curators from two measures dealing with written contracts and bargaining.

But an attorney for the university's nonacademic workers union said the measures didn't hamper the curators because the curators had the option of rejecting any contract offers.

By law, public employes aren't permitted to strike. The curators who are appointed by the governor run the university.

The university is appealing a lower court decision that allows the university to bargain for a written contract with nonacademic workers.

University workers went on strike in October 1972 after the curators refused to sign a contract with the workers. Violence erupted during picketing of a university supplies building.

About the illegal strike, Judge Fred L. Henley said, "To violate the law and pay the penalty is popular. But that doesn't settle the problem. That's just permissiveness."

Union attorney Scott O Wright said, "There's nothing worse you can do to a group of human beings than ignore them. That's what the curators are doing."

Bond outlines plan to create new jobs

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo (AP)—Gov. Christopher S Bond has outlined three ways the state can help create new jobs, thus easing the economic situation.

Bond spoke Thursday night at the annual chamber of commerce banquet in this south-central Missouri town.

He repeated a comment made earlier to the opening legislative session that economic development--specifically more jobs--is the highest priority facing state government.

Bond called for strong marketing at home, to encourage the expansion of companies already in Missouri.

He called for a solid national marketing campaign to attract new industry to the state.

And the governor called for a program of finding new markets abroad for Missouri products and of gaining foreign investment in the state.

Bond told about 250 persons at the banquet that an agressive community spirit is the key factor in obtaining new industrial and business development.

University to offer course at Dexter

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University tentatively plans to offer an evening course during the spring semester at Dexter High School, according to the university's director of school services, Dr. Willard J. Morgan.

Enrollment and the first class session of a mental hygiene course will be conducted at the high school at 6 p.m. Tuesday. The class will meet each Tuesday night thereafter.

The three-credit-hour course is open to both undergraduate and graduate students. However, undergraduates must have at least 45 hours of credit to be eligible to enroll. General psychology is also a prerequisite course.

Cost of the class is $51. At least 17 students must enroll.

According to Dr. Morgan, the class is designed to study the more common behavioral abnormalities, with special reference to mental health and the agencies responsible for mental health programs.

Dr. Morgan said the course is offered primarily for the convenience of citizens of Stoddard, Butler, New Madrid and Dunklin Counties.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Morgan at Southeast Missouri State.

Houston continues to grow

HOUSTON (AP) — Aided by a booming oil business and a state law which permits the city to annex suburbs freely, Houston is growing and prospering while many other cities in the nation face stagnation.

While the country struggles with a 7.1 per cent unemployment rate, the latest figures here show only 4.5 per cent of the city's work force is without jobs.

Alone among major cities, Houston continues to grow while other cities see the tax base eroded as the white, affluent middle class moves to the suburbs.

Fred Hofheinz, 33, the tall, wealthy and handsome lawyer who put together a coalition of labor, minorities and liberals a year ago to grab the mayor's job from the downtown establishment, says the city's present prosperity rests on a simple base — the oil industry and municipal expansion.

"About 35 per cent of the petrochemical production in the United States is produced on the Houston Ship Channel," said Hofheinz, whose speech reflects his doctorate in economics. "While the rest of the world suffers in a very real sense, the city of Houston benefits. We are headquarters for many of the international oil companies. We are fortunate that our basic industry is the international industry."

In the latest figures released in December by the Census Bureau, Houston's standard metropolitian area moved up from 14th place to 13th place while the city itself is generally thought to be the nation's fifth largest. 1 million.

The reason, says Hofheinz, is the state's annexation law that allows cities to annex up to 5 per cent of surrounding territory without a vote of either the city or those being annexed.

"If we stop our growth, we are not going to stop people from coming. All you are going to do is stop the jobs," he said.

Today's good news

Man rescues girl from oncoming train

NEW YORK (AP) — Everett Sanderson went into the East 86th Street subway station, noticed a commotion at the center of the platform and heard screams.

The train was coming out of the tunnel into the station when Sanderson saw Michelle DeJesus, 4.

"When I saw the little girl sprawled across the track, I just jumped down," Sanderson said.

"I had to run about 20 feet to her and all the time I saw the train's headlights and I could see the motorman. It seemed like he didn't even notice us.

"It was easy handing the girl up, but when I tried to jump up I didn't make it all the way. My first thought was, 'There go my legs.' But all the people grabbed me and I went up like an elevator." The train missed his feet by inches.

Joanne DeJesus, who had been waiting with her daughter around 5 p.m. Thursday for the train home, said Michelle slipped from her grasp and started running along the platform.

"All of a sudden she slipped over the side. I didn't know what to do. I just started screaming," she said.

Sanderson, 34, an unemployed musician, slipped away before Mrs. DeJesus could thank him. SHE SAID LATER SHE WOULD "like to say something wonderful to him."

Michelle was checked by doctors at Metropolitan Hospital and found to be unharmed.

Acupuncture clinic opens in Connecticut

MIDDLEBURY, Conn. (AP) — Adjacent to an empty field and an abandoned farmhouse stands a new, multi-colored brick building where medical techniques of the ancient Orient are practiced alongside those of the western world.

A sign outside reads: "S.J. Liao, M.D. Professional Corp." Inside there is a large waiting room and seven examination rooms similar to any other doctor's office. The only difference is that acupuncture is performed here.

In Dr. Liao's office, several Chinese charts of the human figure hang from the walls. They show the 1,000 points of the body in which needles can be inserted during acupuncture treatment.

Liao says the public has been misinformed about acupuncture, perceiving it as a painless cure-all shrouded in mysticism.

Liao, who came to the United States in 1947 from the People's Republic of China, has been a licensed physician in Connecticut since 1954. He attended Yale-in-China Medical College and did post graduate work in public health and bacteriology. He has done extensive research into rheumatism and arthritis.

"The public is entitled to the proper information about acupuncture," he says. "The American public thinks of it as an 'in' thing to do like yoga and transcendental meditation. They equate acupuncture with the mysterious, the ying, the yang, and the five elements of health, although this is played down in China today as history."

Contrary to popular belief, Liao says acupuncture treatment is not painless.

"The needles do prick when they go in," he said. "It must hurt some so that the patient receives the proper sensation. And there's a tendency to put as few needles in as one can. In many cases, only one or two needles are needed, but this varies with each condition."

Liao compares acupuncture to aspirin: "It gives temporary relief of pain. There's no permanency in it and we should not expect it to be a miracle. For some, there is prolonged relief. But it's use is limited. It works well for pain problems in cases where western medicine has nothing else to offer. It alleviates symptoms."

Records may be reviewed

SCOTT CITY--The Illmo-Scott City Board of Education has authorized Superintendt J.A. Holmes to carry out the Family Rights and Privacy Act, allowing students and parents upon request to review official school records. The law was passed by the federal government in 1974.

The law states that the school must permit access to the records by parents of students under 18 years old and to students 18 years old or older.

Those who have "legitimate educational interest," such as school officials and teachers within the district, may also be granted access to the records.

A court order of subpoena, however, is required to release the records to any other individual or organization without the written consent of the parents or student. Written consent must indicate which records are to be released, reasons for the release and to whom they are to be released.

The records may be challenged, to insure that they are not inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of students.

The law defines student records as being "all material that is incorporated into each students folder." This includes identifying data, attendance dates, scores on standardized intelligence, aptitude and psychological tests, health data, family background information, teacher or counselor ratings and observations and verified reports of serious or recurrent behavior patterns.

The action by the school board came Monday at their regular meeting. Also at that meeting Superintendent Holmes reported on the progress of the building program in the district.

He said all inside and outside walls of the classroom additions to the junior high school, as well as the roof, are nearing completion, and heating ducts and electrical works are progressing on schedule.

Windows are to be installed in the next few days and furnaces are to be installed in late February, when they are scheduled to arrive. Tentative plans call for construction to be completed in May.

Holmes also reported that the average assessed valuation per student in the 1341 AAA schools in Missouri for the 1973-74 school year was $12,457 compared to $5,240 for the Illmo-Scott City district.

The local tax money collected for each pupil in the school was $235, he said, and the total cost to educate the students was $725 per pupil.

Cletus Koelling, field supervisor of the school food services of the State Department of Education submitted, a favorable report to the board after his recent visit and inspection of the school cafeteria.

Burglars hit area church

CHARLESTON — Police were notified at 7 p.m. Thursday of a burglary at the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ at 301 N. Locust St.

A window on the north side of the church was broken, and a snare drum and sticks, valued at $40 were taken.

The burglary reportedly occurred sometime between 9:30 p.m. Sunday and 9:30 a.m. Monday.

World news in brief

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford, following the tradition of every president since Franklin D. Roosevelt, has accepted the post of honorary chairman of the United Service Organizations. The agency, founded in 1941, is a voluntary, civilian nonprofit organization which provides social services for the nation's 2.1 million service men and women and their dependents.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Charlie Chaplin, king of the movie clowns who was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II in her New Year's honors, plans to return to his Swiss home at the end of this week after spending several days here mixing business and pleasure. Chaplin, 85, is "feeling fine and enjoying jaunts through the London streets" he knew as a boy, a spokesman said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedienne Phyllis Diller's star has been implanted on Hollywood's "Walk of Fame" along with those of 1,604 other entertainers. Miss Diller, 57, is in her 20th year in show business. Her star was placed on the sidewalk Wednesday between those of Ethel Barrymore and Wallace Beery.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Isabel Peron, on a working vacation at the seaside resort of Chapadmalal since Jan. 7, is "working intensely and taking some sun," according to her secretary. The 43-year-old Mrs. Peron was expected to remain at the presidential retreat about two weeks, but there has been no indication when she will return.

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says he assumes "it's the best thing that I not know" who is paying for installation of a $200,000 swimming pool at his official home.

He said Thursday that he did not want accusations that favors might be expected in return for the pool, presented to the prime ministerial residence by a group of anonymous individuals.

Trudeau said he had no objection to the names of the donors being revealed if Parliament insisted. "And if it's the will of Parliament that the taxpayers pay for the pool, it's fine with me," he said.

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of Indians living in peace in a remote and rugged area of Mexico could set an example for a world beset by increasing crime rates, a Los Angeles psychiatrist says. The 50,000 Tarahumara Indians exist in an environment almost wholly without suicide or homicide, said Dr. L. Jolyon West. West, a professor of psychiatry at the University of California at Los Angeles, said in a recent interview the key to the nonviolent existence is the way the Tarahumaras rear their children. The Indians are "loving, affectionate, close to their children" and never punish them physically, neglect them or make them feel guilty, he said.

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has become the second auto maker to offer new car buyers significant discounts in the hope that company rebates of up to $500 will lure shoppers into showrooms. General Motors remains the only Big Three firm not sending checks to customers for buying one of its cars. But industry observers say growing pressure from dealers may force GM to do the same to remain competitive in a depressed market. GM officials had no immediate comment on Ford's move. Ford said Thursday it will mail rebates of between $200 and $500 to purchasers of its 1975 small car lines starting immediately. The offer lasts until Feb. 28.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government forces battled all day with Khmer Rouge insurgents threatening Phnom Penh from the west and killed 50 of the insurgents, the Cambodian military command reported today. The government sent troops into the area near Tuol Leap, 13 miles west of Phnom Penh, to try to push back insurgents who were believed massing for attacks on the capital's airport or an ammunition dump nearby, observers said.

Today's good news

Man rescues girl from oncoming train

NEW YORK (AP) — Everett Sanderson went into the East 86th Street subway station, noticed a commotion at the center of the platform and heard screams.

The train was coming out of the tunnel into the station when Sanderson saw Michelle DeJesus, 4.

"When I saw the little girl sprawled across the track, I just jumped down," Sanderson said.

"I had to run about 20 feet to her and all the time I saw the train's headlights and I could see the motorman. It seemed like he didn't even notice us.

"It was easy handing the girl up, but when I tried to jump up I didn't make it all the way. My first thought was, 'There go my legs.' But all the people grabbed me and I went up like an elevator." The train missed his feet by inches.

Joanne DeJesus, who had been waiting with her daughter around 5 p.m. Thursday for the train home, said Michelle slipped from her grasp and started running along the platform.

"All of a sudden she slipped over the side. I didn't know what to do. I just started screaming," she said.

Sanderson, 34, an unemployed musician, slipped away before Mrs. DeJesus could thank him. SHE SAID LATER SHE WOULD "like to say something wonderful to him."

Michelle was checked by doctors at Metropolitan Hospital and found to be unharmed.

Houston continues to grow

HOUSTON (AP) — Aided by a booming oil business and a state law which permits the city to annex suburbs freely, Houston is growing and prospering while many other cities in the nation face stagnation.

While the country struggles with a 7.1 per cent unemployment rate, the latest figures here show only 4.5 per cent of the city's work force is without jobs.

Alone among major cities, Houston continues to grow while other cities see the tax base eroded as the white, affluent middle class moves to the suburbs.

Fred Hofheinz, 33, the tall, wealthy and handsome lawyer who put together a coalition of labor, minorities and liberals a year ago to grab the mayor's job from the downtown establishment, says the city's present prosperity rests on a simple base — the oil industry and municipal expansion.

"About 35 per cent of the petrochemical production in the United States is produced on the Houston Ship Channel," said Hofheinz, whose speech reflects his doctorate in economics. "While the rest of the world suffers in a very real sense, the city of Houston benefits. We are headquarters for many of the international oil companies. We are fortunate that our basic industry is the international industry."

In the latest figures released in December by the Census Bureau, Houston's standard metropolitian area moved up from 14th place to 13th place while the city itself is generally thought to be the nation's fifth largest. 1 million.

The reason, says Hofheinz, is the state's annexation law that allows cities to annex up to 5 per cent of surrounding territory without a vote of either the city or those being annexed.

"If we stop our growth, we are not going to stop people from coming. All you are going to do is stop the jobs," he said.

Acupuncture clinic opens in Connecticut

MIDDLEBURY, Conn. (AP) — Adjacent to an empty field and an abandoned farmhouse stands a new, multi-colored brick building where medical techniques of the ancient Orient are practiced alongside those of the western world.

A sign outside reads: "S.J. Liao, M.D. Professional Corp." Inside there is a large waiting room and seven examination rooms similar to any other doctor's office. The only difference is that acupuncture is performed here.

In Dr. Liao's office, several Chinese charts of the human figure hang from the walls. They show the 1,000 points of the body in which needles can be inserted during acupuncture treatment.

Liao says the public has been misinformed about acupuncture, perceiving it as a painless cure-all shrouded in mysticism.

Liao, who came to the United States in 1947 from the People's Republic of China, has been a licensed physician in Connecticut since 1954. He attended Yale-in-China Medical College and did post graduate work in public health and bacteriology. He has done extensive research into rheumatism and arthritis.

"The public is entitled to the proper information about acupuncture," he says. "The American public thinks of it as an 'in' thing to do like yoga and transcendental meditation. They equate acupuncture with the mysterious, the ying, the yang, and the five elements of health, although this is played down in China today as history."

Contrary to popular belief, Liao says acupuncture treatment is not painless.

"The needles do prick when they go in," he said. "It must hurt some so that the patient receives the proper sensation. And there's a tendency to put as few needles in as one can. In many cases, only one or two needles are needed, but this varies with each condition."

Liao compares acupuncture to aspirin: "It gives temporary relief of pain. There's no permanency in it and we should not expect it to be a miracle. For some, there is prolonged relief. But it's use is limited. It works well for pain problems in cases where western medicine has nothing else to offer. It alleviates symptoms."

Records may be reviewed

SCOTT CITY--The Illmo-Scott City Board of Education has authorized Superintendt J.A. Holmes to carry out the Family Rights and Privacy Act, allowing students and parents upon request to review official school records. The law was passed by the federal government in 1974.

The law states that the school must permit access to the records by parents of students under 18 years old and to students 18 years old or older.

Those who have "legitimate educational interest," such as school officials and teachers within the district, may also be granted access to the records.

A court order of subpoena, however, is required to release the records to any other individual or organization without the written consent of the parents or student. Written consent must indicate which records are to be released, reasons for the release and to whom they are to be released.

The records may be challenged, to insure that they are not inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of students.

The law defines student records as being "all material that is incorporated into each students folder." This includes identifying data, attendance dates, scores on standardized intelligence, aptitude and psychological tests, health data, family background information, teacher or counselor ratings and observations and verified reports of serious or recurrent behavior patterns.

The action by the school board came Monday at their regular meeting. Also at that meeting Superintendent Holmes reported on the progress of the building program in the district.

He said all inside and outside walls of the classroom additions to the junior high school, as well as the roof, are nearing completion, and heating ducts and electrical works are progressing on schedule.

Windows are to be installed in the next few days and furnaces are to be installed in late February, when they are scheduled to arrive. Tentative plans call for construction to be completed in May.

Holmes also reported that the average assessed valuation per student in the 1341 AAA schools in Missouri for the 1973-74 school year was $12,457 compared to $5,240 for the Illmo-Scott City district.

The local tax money collected for each pupil in the school was $235, he said, and the total cost to educate the students was $725 per pupil.

Cletus Koelling, field supervisor of the school food services of the State Department of Education submitted, a favorable report to the board after his recent visit and inspection of the school cafeteria.

Burglars hit area church

CHARLESTON — Police were notified at 7 p.m. Thursday of a burglary at the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ at 301 N. Locust St.

A window on the north side of the church was broken, and a snare drum and sticks, valued at $40 were taken.

The burglary reportedly occurred sometime between 9:30 p.m. Sunday and 9:30 a.m. Monday.

World news in brief

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford, following the tradition of every president since Franklin D. Roosevelt, has accepted the post of honorary chairman of the United Service Organizations. The agency, founded in 1941, is a voluntary, civilian nonprofit organization which provides social services for the nation's 2.1 million service men and women and their dependents.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Charlie Chaplin, king of the movie clowns who was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II in her New Year's honors, plans to return to his Swiss home at the end of this week after spending several days here mixing business and pleasure. Chaplin, 85, is "feeling fine and enjoying jaunts through the London streets" he knew as a boy, a spokesman said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedienne Phyllis Diller's star has been implanted on Hollywood's "Walk of Fame" along with those of 1,604 other entertainers. Miss Diller, 57, is in her 20th year in show business. Her star was placed on the sidewalk Wednesday between those of Ethel Barrymore and Wallace Beery.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Isabel Peron, on a working vacation at the seaside resort of Chapadmalal since Jan. 7, is "working intensely and taking some sun," according to her secretary. The 43-year-old Mrs. Peron was expected to remain at the presidential retreat about two weeks, but there has been no indication when she will return.

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says he assumes "it's the best thing that I not know" who is paying for installation of a $200,000 swimming pool at his official home.

He said Thursday that he did not want accusations that favors might be expected in return for the pool, presented to the prime ministerial residence by a group of anonymous individuals.

Trudeau said he had no objection to the names of the donors being revealed if Parliament insisted. "And if it's the will of Parliament that the taxpayers pay for the pool, it's fine with me," he said.

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of Indians living in peace in a remote and rugged area of Mexico could set an example for a world beset by increasing crime rates, a Los Angeles psychiatrist says. The 50,000 Tarahumara Indians exist in an environment almost wholly without suicide or homicide, said Dr. L. Jolyon West. West, a professor of psychiatry at the University of California at Los Angeles, said in a recent interview the key to the nonviolent existence is the way the Tarahumaras rear their children. The Indians are "loving, affectionate, close to their children" and never punish them physically, neglect them or make them feel guilty, he said.

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has become the second auto maker to offer new car buyers significant discounts in the hope that company rebates of up to $500 will lure shoppers into showrooms. General Motors remains the only Big Three firm not sending checks to customers for buying one of its cars. But industry observers say growing pressure from dealers may force GM to do the same to remain competitive in a depressed market. GM officials had no immediate comment on Ford's move. Ford said Thursday it will mail rebates of between $200 and $500 to purchasers of its 1975 small car lines starting immediately. The offer lasts until Feb. 28.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government forces battled all day with Khmer Rouge insurgents threatening Phnom Penh from the west and killed 50 of the insurgents, the Cambodian military command reported today. The government sent troops into the area near Tuol Leap, 13 miles west of Phnom Penh, to try to push back insurgents who were believed massing for attacks on the capital's airport or an ammunition dump nearby, observers said.

You're never too old to hear better.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. - A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A replica of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write, for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation.

CALL 334-4200 for information or write Beltone Hearing Aid Center, 1901 Broadway, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701.

You're never too old to hear better.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. - A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A replica of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write, for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation.

CALL 334-4200 for information or write Beltone Hearing Aid Center, 1901 Broadway, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701.
